"PEGGY STEWART, DAY" IS OBSERVED IN MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 19.—"Peggy Stewart day," one of the most picturesque anniversaries in the history of Maryland, was observed today by the different historical societies of Maryland. The Peggy Stewart was a brig which, October 19, 1774, arrived in the harbor of Annapolis from England with an assorted cargo, in which were seventeen cases of tea. At the time the people were greatly incensed over the action of England in imposing duty on tea imported into the colonies. Anthony Stewart, owner of the brig, paid the duty on the tea in order to land the rest of the cargo. The colonists were indignant at what they considered not only treason, but defiance. A mob was soon formed, but before any action was taken the thoroughly frightened Stewart, fearing personal violence, offered to burn his vessel and destroy her cargo. The offer was accepted and Stewart applied the torch to his ship, which was burned to the water's edge in the presence of a great crowd of cheering spectators.

WHITMAN SUBMITTED STIPULATION MADE BY STATE IN CASE

Agreements Made With Gamblers As to Immunity Placed in Evidence in Becker Trial in New York Today.

New York, Oct. 19.—District Attorney Whitman produced, when court convened today in the Becker trial, stipulations signed by the state with "Jack" Rose, "Bridge" Weber, Harry Vallon, and Sam Scheppe. They were placed in evidence. The stipulation provided that the four men mentioned before the grand jury in the Rosenthal case should not be prosecuted for the crime for "gambling, extortion or for any crime disclosed in the testimony" they should give, provided that they had "not fired a shot into the body of Rosenthal." The stipulation provided further that they should "tell the truth." Mr. Whitman also handed Mr. McIntyre the original draft of Rose's confession written in jail. It was read and placed in evidence.

Jack Rose and Bridge Weber, two of the state's witnesses against Lieut. Charles Becker in the trial of Herman Rosenthal, themselves, made threats against the life of the gambler, at least a month before the murder it was testified today. Weber according to the testimony of Robert A. Smith said, "I could cut Rosenthal's throat and then sleep with him all night." Rose according to another witness said, "I am going to have Rosenthal killed." It was testified also that Rose declared after the murder, "on the memory of his dead mother" that Becker had nothing to do with the killing of the gambler. The testimony was elicited by the defense in its efforts to prove that Becker is a victim of a conspiracy on the part of the four informers who have testified against him, Rose, Weber, Harry Vallon and Sam Scheppe.

sand dollars, which was paid to the court yesterday, by his attorney, Thomas S. Nolan. Mr. Nolan was also given custody of the prisoner to bring to Janesville and they arrived this morning on an early train. The testimony introduced at the trial was of such a nature that the court excluded all spectators from the courtroom. The prisoner would have been sentenced to a long term in a government prison had it not been for his age and the fact he pleaded guilty to the complaint. For the next six months he will be the guest of Sheriff Ransom and his successor.

SHOW MONEY ORDERS SENT TO M'NAMIGAL

Orders Showing Money Paid By McNamara to McManigal Submitted as Evidence in Dynamiters' Trial.

Indianapolis, Oct. 19.—Postoffice money orders showing how J. J. McNamara sent through the mails, funds which Orville E. McManigal used on his dynamiting trips, were produced at the dynamite conspiracy trial today. Robert H. Bryson, postmaster of Indianapolis, identified many money orders issued to McNamara and payable at cities where explosions occurred. McNamara received several payments at Kansas City, Mo., when he was on his way to blow up the county court house at Omaha, Neb. Emmett Miller of the Kansas City postoffice, identified records showing McNamagals sent $100 to his wife in Chicago, on March 20, 1901, four days before the Omaha explosion. The records also showed transmission of money by McNamara to Frank Eckhoff, Cincinnati. The government charges that McNamara, then secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers was sending the money about the country to promote a "dynamiting campaign," after he had been authorized to spend $1,000 a month by the union executive board. Daniel H. Miller, clerk of the postoffice at Phillipsburg, N. J., identified the signature of George Haggerty, an iron worker. The government charges McNamara plotted to destroy a bridge at Phillipsburg.

SHOW MONEY ORDERS

E. A. Noel of Detroit, secretary-treasurer of a local iron workers union testified he knew McNamagals when the latter was working on a building in Detroit in June, 1907. Noel said Herbert S. Hockin was living in Detroit at the time McNamagals in his confession said it was then that Hockin came to him and induced him to go into the dynamite business. In Detroit, also, McNamagals asserted Hockin paid him $75 for his first "job" with a note saying "Compliments of the executive board. More to come." Charles Smith of Cleveland brother of Peter J. Smith, a defendant from J. J. McNamara, but on the witness stand he testified that the letters had been destroyed. The witness identified letters he had sent to McNamara concerning labor conditions in Cleveland.

Roosevelt to trial next week. The district attorney confirmed his previous statement that Schrank would not be tried until after the national election. Referring to Francis J. Heney's statement that Schrank planned to assassinate the former president in Wisconsin because capital punishment does not obtain in Wisconsin, District Attorney Zabel said: "I do not believe Schrank had any thought of the consequence when he fired the bullet at Col. Roosevelt. In my opinion he took advantage of his first opportunity to shoot the colonel and that if he could have committed the deed in any other state he would have done so, regardless of what his punishment might be."

ROOSEVELT WILL BE ABLE TO LEAVE FOR THE EAST MONDAY

Physicians Report He Has Improved So That He Is Now Out of Danger.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Col. Roosevelt will leave Mercy Hospital for Oyster Bay Monday forenoon at 8:15 o'clock over the Pennsylvania railroad. This was the announcement made today by Dr. Alexander Lambert, the colonel's family physician after the examining physicians had issued the following bulletin describing his condition: "9:05 a. m. Saturday, October 19. Pulse 86, temperature 98, respiration 20. Breathing easier. Resting well. Conditions good. Convalescing satisfactorily. Last night was one of almost unbroken rest for Colonel Theodore Roosevelt who lies wounded in Mercy Hospital. He fell asleep shortly after eleven last night and awakened only once between then and 7:30 this morning when he was ready for breakfast. The wound the colonel received, at the hands of the would-be assassin in Milwaukee, is said to be causing him little trouble. The crisis in his illness now is believed to have been passed and his rapid recovery is confidently expected. Lead poisoning is no longer regarded as a possibility by his physicians. The only danger now is the appearance of lock jaw, but even this is believed to be remote. Throughout the night the colonel was only once awake and that at "The bullet that wounded Col. Roosevelt," he said, "would have knocked a black bear or an elk from its feet. It is even larger than bullets used by big game hunters. "We want to let this wound heal without an operation, if possible, because it would be a shame to cut the magnificent chest. The colonel built like a lion."

three o'clock and then only for a few minutes in which night nurse Fitzgerald had only time to take the clinical record. The clinical record at that time was temperature 98, pulse, 70, respiration 18. This is practically where the figures stood last night. Such other changes in his clinical record were not considered of importance.

With his breakfast, which he had with Mrs. Roosevelt, he asked to be given the morning papers. For the first time since confinement in the hospital, Colonel Roosevelt was permitted to sit up for a short space yesterday. It is believed that this release will be lengthened today. It has not been definitely decided what date the colonel will leave for Oyster Bay. Monday or Tuesday has been tentatively fixed, but something may come up which will cause the plans to be changed.

Today, the colonel will personally reply to some of the many letters that are being constantly received but most of them are being looked after by his secretary. Looking after such correspondence as his physicians and Mrs. Roosevelt will permit him to date for, and receiving a few visitors, seemed to be the program for today.

STATE PLANS TO BUY FOUR CITY BLOCKS?

"CIVITAS" SENDS COMMUNICATION TO GAZETTE INTIMATING HUGE STATE LAND GRAFT.

POWER IN AMENDMENT

Amendment Giving State Right to Buy Land for Parks Makes Possible Expensive Addition to Capitol Park.

Calling attention to an amendment which will be voted on at the November election, a Janesville resident who signs himself, "Civitas," writes a pertinent communication laying bare a scheme by which the state government might purchase four city blocks in the heart of Madison in order to extend the Capitol Park to the shore of Lake Monona. The article which is given below speaks plainly and will serve to indicate the way to vote November 5th if citizens wish to thwart a drainage of ten million or more dollars from the public coffers. "Civitas" writes:

I have just received a copy of the state election pamphlet issued by the secretary of the state and paid for by the taxpayers of the state in which is set out in full the four amendments to the state constitution that we are expected to vote on in November. Each amendment is quoted in the pamphlet, and there follows each an explanation of the effect of the amendment. The first amendment strikes out the word "quarterly" from the provision relating to payment of judges' salaries, and the pamphlet explains that its purpose is to enable the legislature to fix monthly salaries for judges instead of quarterly payments. The second relates to the indebtedness of cities, and the pamphlet explains that it relates to Milwaukee only. The fourth gives the suffrage amendment, and the pamphlet explains that this will give women the right to vote. The third amendment is as follows:

Section 2a. The state or any of its cities may acquire by gift, purchase, or condemnation lands for establishing, laying out, widening, enlarging, extending, and maintaining memorial grounds, streets, squares, parkways, boulevards, parks, playgrounds, sites for public buildings and reservations in and about and along and leading to any or all of the same; and after the establishment, layout, and completion of such improvements, may convey any such real estate thus acquired and not necessary for such improvements with reservations concerning the future use and occupation of such real estate so as to protect such public works and improvements, and their environs, and to preserve the view, appearance, light, air, and usefulness of such public work.

Effect of Amendment. This amendment adds an entirely new section, which speaks for itself.

Now note the "effect of amendment" as explained by our benign state government: "This amendment adds an entirely new section, which speaks for itself."

If anything were lacking to prove the low opinion held by our state officials of the average voter's intelligence, this bare faced outrage ought to supply the omission. If the coteries of political leeches and real estate speculators at Madison really believe that their scheme is a good one why not frankly state what the purpose of this amendment in fact is, namely, to permit the next legislature to acquire the title of four city blocks in Madison at a cost of more than ten millions of dollars, level the buildings thereon to the ground and build a park sloping from the new capitol building to the west shore of Lake Monona.

That is what you are asked to vote on, Mr. Taxpayer! The tract involved is bounded on the west by Main street and the present capitol park; on the North by South Pinckney street; on the East by the right of way of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and the Chicago & Northwestern Railway; and on the South by Carroll street. It is intersected by two other streets, Doty and Wilson, both residence streets, while Main street is solid business structures two blocks in length. Among the buildings which will come down are the Pioneer Block corner the Bank of Wisconsin and numerous offices being a five story building; the Avenue Hotel; the Elks Club House and the Orpheum theatre owned by our former townsman, Mr. Ralph Jackson. I don't know whether the owners of these and other buildings in the tract will profit or lose by the condemnation—that is not so material. The main fact is the expenditure of these ten millions for mere show and not for any useful purpose. Without this amendment, the property could not have been acquired, as the state at present may only acquire lands for some public purpose. Ten millions is only an estimate, of course, but anyone acquainted with real estate values in our capitol city can figure the cost for himself. And the attempt is made by our ultra-progressive guardians at Madison to sneak this piece of profligacy through behind the voters' backs, with merely the statement that the amendment "explains itself." Truly, this is "the people be damned" with a vengeance! Not having enough ways in which to waste the public funds and there being presumably no more $1200 per acre farms available, they would buy the heart of the city itself at what price the Lord only knows and make a fine impressive landscape garden sloping down, if you please, to five lovely, aesthetic scenic pairs of steel rails, along which will thunder on an average of one every five minutes daily the dainty, artistic, noiseless stock freight.

Bear this amendment in mind, Mr. Taxpayer.

CALLS ATTENTION TO ARGUMENTS OF ANTI-SUFFRAGE SIDE

"Interested Citizen" Asks Hearing For Statement of Case as Given in Political Pamphlet.

Editor, Gazette:
I notice that you have been receiving a number of communications from persons supporting the woman suffrage cause. Now in justice to the great mass of women of the state who have not and will not be heard I ask the privilege of calling attention through the columns of your paper to the arguments presented by the Madison anti-suffrage society as published in the state political pamphlet. They seem reasonable and I believe should be considered. The statement reads:

To the Electors of Wisconsin:
The foregoing is in effect an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin granting to all women over 21 years of age the full right of suffrage and imposing upon all women in the state the burdens of participating citizenship. The association of women making this appeal to voters of the state stands opposed to woman suffrage in principle. It is an association of earnest, thoughtful and progressive women who have considered this question and now believe a franchise to our sex would benefit neither the state nor woman herself.

The women of our state were not interested in the question and there was no agitation at all until a number of outside workers made their appearance and started the noise. Wisconsin women were not interested enough to provide funds and aid the most all of the money used by the suffragists has been sent here from other states. Along with the money came the agitators.

It is doubtless a fact that a very small part of the men of the state have paid any attention to the call of the suffragists, who have made much noise, held meetings, and been much in the public eye, but represent only an infinitesimal part of the women of the state. Suffrage in Wisconsin is the cry of a small minority of our women. The suffragists make a large showing with a small membership. There are doubtless a goodly number of working women among them, and the balance is in large measure composed of those easily awayed to the advocacy of a novel theory under popular leadership. We ask your consideration of these brief facts: wages cannot be raised by legislation (the ballot). Wage is purely a matter of supply and demand. Women's votes could bring no improvement in this direction. Not a single state now having woman suffrage is today the equal of Wisconsin in the suppression of corrupt practices, vice and other evils; and there are few states, if any, so far advanced as Wisconsin in laws protecting women in every phase of activity, child labor and welfare. Women in politics could do little or nothing, while politics in women would certainly injure the nation and consequently women into politics and you tear down the barriers of convention today. The mothers and the daughters in the home would be the political prizes of any and every candidate. They would have the right to accept and to attempt to persuade.

From the arguments of the suffragists it would seem that the men have failed in their management and control of public affairs. We women exposed to suffrage do not believe this. Our state is among the foremost in progressive legislation. Women's properties and rights are safeguarded by splendid laws. These points have been fully covered during the campaign. The nobler a people the fewer the laws they require. Women can make the race nobler in her present sphere. She can train her children to a full realization of the duties of manhood and citizenship. The fewer laws and the fewer law makers we shall need. Our man-made laws are today improving faster than our woman-made public opinion is growing to support them. We, as women, ask no more than a continuation of that consideration and respect that in the past has made us all a happy and contented people.

This issue rests in the hands of the MALE voters of the state. NO WOMAN can cast a ballot for or against it. And of these men this association composed of home and state-loving women, asks this consideration: Before a few scant thousands of our women are given the ballot because they want it, and almost half a million have it thrust upon them whether they want it or not; before the cost of elections is practically doubled and the indifferent and irresponsible vote greatly increased; before women become involved in the feud and the bitterness and the alterations of the political field that you stop long enough to give the issue careful thought. Consider the condition of our women. We have had much consideration and have been given many distinctive privileges. We do not believe that the ballot will better our condition. We know that it will add much to our duties and responsibilities. Madison Association Opposed to the Extension of Suffrage to Women. President, Mary C. Hoyt. (Mrs. Frank W. Hoyt). Treasurer, Mary N. Hobbins. (Mrs. J. W. Hobbins). Cor. Sec'y, Genevieve M. Mills. Audubertine Woodward Moore. (Mrs. S. H. Moore). Cecile E. Comstock. (Mrs. George Gary Comstock). Mary G. Brown. (Mrs. Frank G. Brown).

I am acquainted with these women—whose signatures are given. Mr. Editor, and they are all women of ability, foresight and culture. They state their case very succinctly and I do not believe that the women should be saddled with unjust burdens just to satisfy these suffrage agitators.

Dr. Hartman's Plain Talk to Young Men.

My plain talk to young men in my last article certainly brought out many responses from young men. I take this means of answering them briefly, for the benefit of other young men who did not write me. One writer says:

"I was greatly interested in your talk to young men. I wish I was strong and well as you describe yourself to be. I am going to begin at once and follow your advice and take care of myself as I ought to. I will quit the use of all stimulants, tea and coffee, go to bed early, I will take the cold water towel bath every morning. I want to live to be old and useful, like you. And I shall also keep Peruna at hand, in case of slight ailments as they may arise. I thank you in the name of thousands of other young men, like myself."

To this letter I replied:
My dear Boy:—I cannot tell you how much good your letter has done me. To know that I am arousing the young men in matters of right living fills me with gratitude and enthusiasm. I want to help you. Write me any time you wish and I will consider your letter strictly confidential and give you prompt reply. Follow the advice I gave in my article. Whenever you have occasion to consult me further do not hesitate. Let us be friends. If you will be obedient to me as a son ought to be I will be faithful and true to you as a father ought to be. Yours Sincerely, S. B. Hartman, M. D., Columbus, Ohio.

TOO HANDSOME TO BE A MALE PERSON

Naturally, they were married, for she ordered him about in a most imperious way. The longest lane has its turning, however, and one day, after a particularly violent outbreak on the part of the lady, the husband attempted to reduce the woman's rights in his household.

"Do you think you rule the universe?" he inquired sarcastically, when the moment came for him to edge in a word.

"No," came the prompt reply. "I do not. But I rule the first letter of it."

And once again the mere man realized that he was indeed the under dog.

Solemn and staid, Mr. Snipes was a little old man who lived in the suburbs, and the pride of his life was a wonderful chiming clock that occupied the post of honor on the mantelpiece of the sitting room.

For over thirty-five years Mr. Snipes had wound that clock precisely at 10:30 o'clock each evening.

"I couldn't sleep without doing it," he once remarked. "I'd as soon miss my supper as miss my clock."

One evening a new acquaintance dropped in to spend a few hours with Snipes and family, and the gentleman happened to be a maker of watches and clocks.

Punctually at 10:30 o'clock the aged sububant rose and proceeded faithfully to wind his pet time-piece.

"That's rather a nice clock," remarked the watchmaker, examining it intently.

"Yes," replied Snipes "and man and boy for thirty-five years have I wound up that clock at 10:30 each evening. It's got to be my habit."

"Well," replied the jeweler, "all I can say is, you've wasted a lot of time. That's an eight day clock."

Eleonor St. Claire.

Girls wouldn't be fine if every young man was as handsome as this picture? But of course, that will never be. In fact, the person in the picture isn't of the masculine persuasion. She's too handsome. The picture represents Miss Eleonor St. Claire as she appears in Ziegfeld's "Follies of 1912," now playing at a Broadway theater. It probably would be necessary to add that she's making a great hit.

The first United States stocking factory was set up at Cohoes, New York, in 1832. The machine for knitting was the invention of Lee, an Englishman, who took out a patent in 1589. To the surprise of no one, Hugh Bedient comes out of the world's series with honors, as high as those accorded Joe Wood. "Smoky" Joe made a splendid record; however, and his poor work in the seventh game is the only thing that he need regret.

Who is Hugh Bedient, anyway? His praises have been sung very little this summer, and Wood has monopolized public attention to such a degree that Bedient's very existence has almost been forgotten. At eighteen, young Bedient was living on a farm two miles outside Falconer, N. Y. A Jamestown semi-professional club got hold of him for a time. Then he joined the Sharps, Pa. club in the O. & P. league. His next upward step was a job on a New England league team. He developed rapidly and soon after became the property of the Red Sox.

Mike Murphy, the veteran coach of the University of Pennsylvania, who trained the American champions at the last Olympic games, is seriously ill at his home in Philadelphia, and his physicians while not acknowledging it openly, fear he may not recover. Murphy's health has not been good for several months, and his inability to coach this fall and winter will be a serious handicap to Pennsylvania.

Ernest Barry, of England, the world's champion sculler, found Edward Hanlon, of Toronto, a worthy opponent.

SOX EASY WINNERS IN DECIDING GAME

Chance Uses Five Pitchers in Vain While Big Ed Walsh Holds

The Cubs to Five Hits.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, Oct. 19.—The White Sox romped away with the city championship honors defeating the crest-fallen Cubs to the air of 16 to 0 at Comiskey park yesterday afternoon thereby retaining the city championship title which they won so gloriously last season. Chance used five pitchers in a vain effort to stop the onslaught but all succumbed before the onslaught of the demon Sox. Big Ed Walsh was supreme holding the west siders to five scattered hits. The box score will be of interest:

Canadian champion, "Smoky" Joe Wood, picked in a recent race on the Thames. Barry won by two boat lengths in 22 minutes and 31 seconds.

Eddie O'Keefe, the New York featherweight, who lost a decision to Johnny Kilbane at Cleveland recently, declares that he'd like to meet the champion at 122 pounds ringside before any club in the country.

"I will post a forfeit of $50 to make 122 with all my ring togs on, and weigh at the ringside," says O'Keefe. "Furthermore, I will bet the $500 as a side bet."

In his fight with Kilbane O'Keefe proved to be a clever boxer, his defense being especially effective. He also showed a fast left hand, with which he jabbed Johnny more frequently than any boy whom the champion had met previously in Cleveland.

Manager McGraw has let it be known that he will never again permit any of his players to write up their series games in which they participate. He doesn't say whether he will cut out the literary stuff himself or not, but some of the players think it would be just as well if he did. In writing up his account of the first world's series game for this year "Muggsy" wanted to make his story read well, so he panned Chief Meyers for not catching a foul that came down on the screen over the Polo ground press-box, which is level with the field. When the big chief read it there was one man in the dugout, and he hadn't fully recovered yet.

More Than Cal. Expected.
"The result was more than I expected," said Manager Callahan of the Sox, following the slaughter. "I knew that we'd win, but looked for a close fight."

Nothing to Say—Chance.
Chance was disgusted when asked for a statement last night. "I have nothing to say," he declared. "I don't believe that our pitchers showed enough stuff to win a class D league game."

BASEBALL NOTES.
The directors of the Three League have boosted the salary limit to $2,000, a $600 increase over last season. "Stuzy" McInnis did some wonder hitting in the post-season series between the Athletics and the Phillies.

Dick Cooley, formerly of the Phillies and present owner of the Salt Lake City team, has opened a cafe at Salt Lake City.

In the first big games he has taken part in, Forest Gady, the Red Sox's young catcher, displayed the nerve of a veteran.

In having to go against "Smoky" Joe Wood it looks as though "Jeff" Tesreau was made the fall guy of the championship series.

After being delayed in getting a start on account of bad weather, the Cubs and White Sox put up some classy battles for the Chicago championship.

Bobby Veach, the Indianapolis player, played sensational ball after joining the Detroit Tigers, and will no doubt be on the job in Tigerville next season.

Baseball fans never have witnessed any better ball playing than the article put up by Captain Heine Wagner, of the Red Sox, in the Red Sox-Giants series.

They charged little Josh Devore, of the Giants, with being a quitter in the world's series of 1911, but Devore's work in the big series this fall made the knockers put the soft pedal on their chatter.

One of the ground rules for the world's series reads: "If a ball hit a policeman standing in the outfield, the ball would still be in play, just as if it had hit a fence." Coppers have had to stand for a while lot, but this is the first time they have been rated with a ball park fence.

JANESVILLE ELEVEN DEFEATS JEFFERSON IN ONE-SIDED GAME

Local High School Team Wins Easy Victory, 41 to 0, in Contest at Fair Grounds This Morning.

In the football game at the fair grounds this morning, the Janesville high school eleven romped away with the Jefferson high school squad, defeating them by a score of 41 to 0.

The teams seemed to be about evenly matched as to weight, but Jefferson was unable to make any substantial gains through the Janesville line, while the Bowyer City boys and little difficulty in pushing back the Jefferson defense. The game, as played under the new rules, was used to advantage for gains, but the local players were unable to advance the ball by straight football. Of the six touchdowns made, Edler scored twice by long end runs, and once on a fake pass, and Connell scored twice on passes and once through Jefferson's line with the ball near the visitors' goal. Ryan kicked goal five times out of the six trials he made. The first score was made for Janesville early in the first quarter on a pass from Edler to Connell, who carried the ball twenty-five yards for a touchdown. Janesville did not score again in that quarter, but in the second quarter Edler placed the ball behind the goal line, first on a fake pass and then by an end run.

Edler made another end run for a touchdown in the third quarter and Connell made a touchdown on a forward pass play. Connell was sent over the Jefferson line for the final touchdown. The lineups for the game were as follows:

War Department Message to be Carried From New York to San Diego California, Starting Sunday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Oct. 19.—The ocean-to-ocean relay of the Federation of American Motorcyclists, by which a message from the War Department will be carried by motorcycle messengers from New York to San Diego, Cal., is scheduled to start from the City Hall here tomorrow evening. As soon as the message is accepted by one relay, the relay just ahead will be notified, by wire when to expect it and will then be ready to take it and carry it on without loss of time.

WITH THE BOXERS.

New Haven fans will see their first bout of the season October 28.

"One Round" Hogan and Phil Brock have signed for a clash to take place in Cleveland Oct. 28.

Jack Huston, the Chicago boxer, is putting "him" away, Leach Cross being his latest victim.

Patsy Sweeney, the old-time Manchester, N. H., lightweight, is going to promote boxing shows in that city.

Frank Klaus, who is now in Paris is trying to get a match with Bombardier Wells, the English heavy-weight champion.

Young Jack O'Brien, brother of "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, is finding plenty to do in the boxing game and improving right along.

Joe Mandot, ex-trainer of Ad Wolgast, to train him for his bout with the champion, scheduled for New Orleans, Nov. 2.

Jack Johnson being willing to meet Sam Langford, Sam McVea and Jim Flynn looks good on paper, but fight fans are from Missouri and will have to be shown.

Baker Borton.

Unofficial averages for the Western league season of 1912, which have been compiled by a Sioux City statistician, and which are accurate enough to show the relative batting strength of the various players and teams, show that the league's leading-batter for the season was Baker Borton, of St. Joseph, Mo. He has an average of .357. He was led by Weaver of Denver, Isbell of Des Moines and Alex Larry of Lincoln, but they participated in so few games that their averages are not considered.

Personal Investigation.

An old woman walked into a bank in Inverness, threw down her deposit-book, and said she wished to draw all her money. Having got it, she retired to a corner of the room until counted it. She then marched up to the teller, and exclaimed: "AY, that's doo, ma man; just pit it back again. I only wanted to see if it was a right."—Dundee News.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

It stretched before him wondrous fair,
A shining land—
And off he dreamed of sailing there.
But there came tales
Of storm-swept seas and heavy gales.
Of how this ship or that
To reach the port had failed.
And so he never sailed,
But sought to find a safer mode
To reach that blissful shore.
Ah, foolish man, dost not thou know
If thou wouldst reach that land,
Side which all others pale,
Thou, first, must sail?

—Louis Atwood.

The story is told of a man who bought a ticket to the old world and journeyed across the country to the port from which he was to embark, but when he stood at the dock and looked out over the vast expanse of water, his courage failed, and so the trip was abandoned.

The roadway of life is lined with derelicts who never arrived at any port, because they never started. Many of these wrecks belong to the down and out class because they have passed the age of opportunity, and therefore excite but little attention or sympathy.

But a larger class are men and women, in the prime of life, who are simply drifters, because they are attempting to navigate the voyage without chart or compass. They never started with any definite purpose, but simply emerged and floated out with the tide.

The habits of life, which control us so completely, are usually formed in the early stages of the journey. That is, why it is so difficult for people to change, after they reach the age of thirty, and why they are so slow to make a start in any new direction, as they approach middle life.

If they have failed in one or two ventures, that usually settles it, for with the failure has come loss of confidence, and when self-confidence is destroyed the case is hopeless.

Many people never learn the lesson that the school of adversity is the best department in the great university of life, because it tests the fibre of character, and develops fighting qualities so necessary to success in every calling.

Much is said in these days of modern progress and regulative reform, about equal opportunity, and the "down-trodden masses" are arrayed against the "favored classes" from every conceivable angle.

The platform of the new progressive party exploits this dangerous doctrine, and many deluded people have been led to believe that the success of this new party means individual success, very much as this class of surface thinkers were captivated by the 16 to 15 silver-dollar of Bryan fame.

The establishment of prices of either labor or commodities by law, is the most visionary will-o-the-wisp that ever haunted the brain. It ignores the unwritten fundamental law of supply and demand, and is as impractical as many other reform measures, which now annoy the body politic.

The question of equal opportunity is still more visionary. The men past middle life, who have made a failure because they never started with determination to go anywhere, are howling the loudest about special privilege and favored interests, yet they would change places with Morgan and Rockefeller, or any other magnate to-morrow, if they had a chance.

"Equal opportunity" covers a broad territory. It means so much more than money, that money is hardly worth considering. It means endowment of brain plus all the other facties of mind and heart working in harmony for the accomplishment of a single purpose. A man thus equipped laughs at failure and steadily presses to the front.

The school of hard knocks is the holiday period, for this class of minds for they know that victory lies just over the hill and the struggle, which tests their metal never causes a worry. Can any law create a division of this kind of spots?

The American boy lacks direction more than he lacks ambition, and the reason why so many of them never get anywhere is largely because they drift out into the most convenient channel, with no thought as to whether the end of the road is worth exploring.

The boy is not to blame for lack of knowledge of himself, and the class of work to which he is best adapted, but the home and the school are responsible, in many cases, for not starting him right.

This is a strong argument in favor of the industrial schools, just now exciting so much interest. These schools help the parent and teacher, as well as the boy, to discover the bent of his mind, and develops it along the line of the one thing that he can do best. The boy needs just this kind of an opportunity and it is due him, and the home, that he should have it.

The tide of boy life is setting in strong towards the centers of population. The boy from the farm drifts into town, and the boy from the town seeks the city, and thus every avenue except the farm is crowded with young life scrambling to gain a foothold.

Ride the country over and you will find that the complexion of population has entirely changed during the last twenty-five years. The new generation of American boys are not farmers, and the girls, having no choice, are obliged to put up with a cheap husband, who never started to go anywhere, or become suffragettes and remain spinsters.

Changes in the industrial world are equally pronounced. The American boy takes less kindly to industrial work than he does to farming. He usually leaves school from the grades, not to learn a trade, but to find work in some store or office at from four to five dollars a week, and if he makes good, you find him at the same old stand ten years later, with a princely salary of from six to eight hundred dollars a year and a growing family to support. He never started anywhere, and the chances are that he never will.

But for foreign labor, American industries would not long exist. The factories in Beloit are employing a large number of Italian workmen. In all large factories almost every nationality except our own, is well represented.

The thrifty foreigner, who comes to this country—and many of them are thrifty—is filled with ambition to get somewhere, and he usually arrives. If his mind is intent on owning a farm, he goes to work in the country and in a few years becomes a landlord.

If he has commercial instincts, he starts with a push cart and within a reasonable time is a full-fledged merchant. If inclined to industrial life, he digs our ditches and builds our railroads, and then goes into our factories, and in time excels as a first-class artisan. He started from the old world, handicapped in many ways, but with purpose in his heart to better his condition, and the new world, so rich in opportunity, met him more than half way.

This class of adopted citizens are object lessons, which the native born American can well afford to study. The spirit of thrift and economy which they possess, as well as the courage and determination with which they are endowed, is worthy of emulation.

The American boy and girl enjoys every advantage by the right of inheritance. They are surrounded with opportunities such as no other nation offers, and every last one of them ought to start somewhere, early in life, with a fixed purpose. If this was done, the complaint about special privilege and equal opportunity would expire with the present generation.

STATE PRESS AND POLITICS.

Is Cooper Backsliding?

Racine Journal-News:—The introduction of Col. Roosevelt to a Racine gathering, assembled to greet him en route to Milwaukee by Congressman Cooper with his words of praise, may be variably interpreted. But the impression is general that our congressman is viewing the success of the Colonel as a much more desired result, than he has the election of President Taft. It is true Mr. Cooper has not followed the course as has Gov. McGovern in opening repudiating the President, but many of our citizens will have that feeling that it is more the political welfare of Col. Roosevelt than the political welfare of President Taft.

Under the circumstances the wisest course would have been for Mayor Goodland as the representative of the city to have welcomed Col. Roosevelt.

Like Gov. McGovern, Congressman Cooper is undoubtedly the regular nominee of the Republican party, and in this position, undoubtedly, his support should be given to President Taft. It is not saying this is not so since no open words have indicated this, and this course in introducing the Colonel to Racine may have been prompted merely as a citizen and a member of congress.

But since it is President Taft, who is the nominee of the Republican party, just the same party that nominated Mr. Cooper, many good Republicans have that impelling idea, something ought to have something good to say to the President, and give him his open endorsement.

Name a Few Please.

Never was there a campaign in which so many alleged republican state papers failed to give support to a national ticket—Milwaukee News:—Until the News supplies a long

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

How to Furnish a House.

A good many young married couples are probably wondering how they are going to furnish their homes. If they will only follow the advice given by the how-to-be-happy-through-married writers in the magazines their troubles will dissolve into thin air.

A neat and nifty chair can be made out of an old cracker barrel on end and saw out a front section half way up, leaving the rear section of the barrel to serve as a back to the chair. Nail in a seat and cover the whole with checked gingham or muslin. Nail a bow of blue ribbon to the back of the chair, to other ornament is necessary. It is not necessary to make the structure very substantial as nobody will ever sit in it.

A splendid umbrella rack can be made out of a length of old stovepipe, stood on end and fastened at the bottom to a block of wood one foot square. The stovepipe should be covered with gilt paint and a few cupids or angels painted on it in blue or green. It will hold seven umbrellas no matter how or where you get them.

It is very easy to make a fireless cooker out of an old soap box and about a nickel's worth of hinges and other hardware. Inside of the box place a large tin can and pack hay or asbestos between the can and the sides of the box. It will cook food as satisfactorily as any high priced cooker, which may or may not be saying very much.

An old red striped shirt makes a very satisfactory curtain for a small window. The shoulders of the shirt can be tacked to the upper edge of the window and the tail of the shirt can be split up the back so that it can be draped on either side and tied in place by neat bows of yellow ribbon.

Wife Was on the Job.

The eminent politician was getting his handbag packed and was about to go and see Gov. Wilson. "I am going to Sea Girl," said he to his wife.

"I never heard of her before, but if you are going to see any Gert, I am going with you," was the reply. Protestations were useless and she went.

These Make Life Worth Living.

Having a tooth drilled.
Getting the bill from the plumber.
Breaking in a new briar pipe.
Trying to eat a juicy salad with a fork.
Listening to an amateur soprano.
Attending an author's soiree.
Having the neighbor bring back your lawnmower broken.

List of such papers, its statement must be taken as a compliment to the loyalty of the republican press of the state. The News would be very glad to have the News state just what republican papers of the state are out supporting the national ticket. It knows of but two or three—Appleton Post.

Suffragists Take Notice.

Palmyra Enterprise:—The Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs went on record last week as favoring Equal Suffrage, in a vote of 129 to 65. It was opposed by some on the ground that the Federation takes no part in politics, but some of these same women had advocated and voted for the endorsement of certain other laws, and seems to us very inconsistent in opposing the passage of this law, which in no way endorses any political party and as one member said, "Is not a question of politics, but of citizenship."

The Winning Gain.

Whitewater Gazette:—There are but three weeks in which to complete the campaign and in that time a lot of people will have to make up their mind as to how they will vote. Taft is steadily gaining ground and will run much better than he would at the time of the convention.

SCRIPTURE

I Kings 17:1-6.

And Elijah the Tishbit, who was of the inhabitants of Gilead, said unto Ahab, as the Lord God of Israel liveth before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word.

And the word of the Lord came unto him, saying,

Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward, and hide thyself by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook; and I have commanded the ravens to feed thee there.

So he went and did according unto the word of the Lord; for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

And the ravens brought him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening; and he drank of the brook.

Origin of "Spinster."

"Spinster," as a term, owes its origin to the fact that in olden days the law did not permit a woman to marry until she had spun a complete set of linen. There was a particularly wholesome restraint about some of the old laws.

To Wipe Out Finger Marks.

Rub the finger marks on doors with a piece of clean flannel dipped in kerosene oil; afterwards wipe with a cloth wrung out of hot water to take the smell away. This is better than using soap and water, as it does not destroy the paint.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

Hank Tumms has bought a thesaurus on the installment plan from a canvasser, and it is going to be delivered next week. Hank is building a cage out in the back yard to keep it in and his wife says she supposes the dumber critter will eat its head off. Hank says it is a prehistorical animal and he is going to exhibit it at the county fair.

Many and varied are the traditions of the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" shows which travel around the kerosene circuit. One "Tom" show recently struck here and exhibited a tent. The trouble started when one actor went crazy and nearly put the bloodhound out of business. After the hound had been cared for by local physicians, the show proceeded.

During the sad scene when Little Eva was on her way to heaven, she swallowed her false teeth and it required the efforts of the entire congregation and the doctor to restore her. They finally started to haul her up to heaven when one of the ropes broke and she hit the stage with a bang, but escaped without serious injuries. Milza had her troubles, too.

When she started to cross the ice, it was discovered that the two gentlemen whose duty it was to crawl under the stage carpet and impersonate the cakes of ice, had been honey-fugling with the red liquor and were not to be found. To add to the embarrassment of the occasion, Uncle Tom appeared in a high state of intoxication and knocked Simon Legree down three times when the latter appeared with the rawhide. Barring these minor difficulties, the performance ran like clockwork and the public got its money worth.

The Subject Eternal.

They harp upon it every day.
And have for decades past.
Of all the campaign arguments,
It is the first and last.

It hangs around like Banquo's ghost
And won't be scared away.
It is the thing they argue most
Throughout the entire fray.

Nobody understands it well
And most folks not at all.
But still it is the subject on
Which all the speakers bawl.

They've fought it out for years and years;
They've argued day and night,
But still it doesn't seem as though
They'll ever fix it right.

They're at it once again this year,
They will forget it never.
For men may come and men may go
But the tariff goes on forever.

Twins in Common Suffering.

Darwin has recorded a French case of two twin brothers, one living in Paris and the other in Vienna, who were attacked by rheumatic ophthalmia at the same moment. Each was certain, when consulting a specialist, that the other was suffering from a like complaint, and mentioned the fact. Subsequent letters confirmed this.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A GOOD COUGH CURE

Do you remember the good old cough cure mother used to have? It didn't taste like cherry pie but it did cure a cough in a hurry. Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, makes our cough balsam by percolation direct from the roots, barks and balsams of wild cherry, bloodroot, lobelia, white pine bark. Thereby obtaining the full medicinal virtue and strength of each drug, making it into a syrup we call Badger Cough Balsam. It is made after an old prescription which is today the best cure for any cough, bronchial or lung trouble, healing and soothing to the irritated throat and lungs, it cures by assisting to expel the phlegm from the lungs, not by dosing the system with morphia and chloroform as do the modern patent cough remedies, deadening the nervous system, stupefying the lungs into retaining the mucus, thereby bringing on possible pneumonia and pleurisy. Badger Cough Balsam is a trustworthy expectorant, it loosens up and expels the phlegm. Get a bottle today for yourself or the children. It's safe to use, 25c. # ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

[From a series of elaborate chemical tests.]

Comparative digestibility of food made with different baking powders:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

The percentage of the food digested is shown as follows:

Bread made with Royal Cream of Tartar Powder:

99 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:

67½ Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:

67 Per Cent. Digested

Royal Baking powder raised food is shown to be of greatly superior digestibility and healthfulness.

His Heart Filled Up.
"You," sighed the rejected lover, "would your name, written in imperishable characters on my heart could you but look?" "So?" murmured the fair young thing, who was aware of the fact that the swain had been playing Romeo at the seaside for something like 20 years. "So? Then you must have a heart like a local directory by this time."

Examples as well as precept was furnished to the youthful autograph fiend who wrote to one of the world's richest men, asking for an "autograph sentiment" and inclosing a two-cent stamp for his reply. Would I Were A Glove Upon That Hand

Milady's gloves for this season will be an important feature. They must be the "correct thing" with each costume.

The long sleeved coat and wrap mean the short glove for street wear, and for the season 1912-13 the light kid gloves will be in high favor for dressy suits.

The new "Citron" and "Cement" shades, cousins of the familiar champagne will be worn as much as the white.

The all white or white stitched with black, will remain in favor, and the suit glove, in color to match the costume will be good this season.

In the wrist glove, the fastener is one large button-clasp of pure or smoked pearl.

ORFORDVILLE PASTOR GAVE TALK ON LIFE IN LONDON

Rev. William Sainsbury Described Life Among Poor of Metropolis in Lecture Tuesday Night.

Orfordville, Oct. 18.—The lecture given Tuesday evening by Rev. Mr. Sainsbury on "London" called out a good sized audience, who came prepared to listen with enthusiasm to his description of the wonderful "Hub of the World." Mr. Sainsbury, having spent his life in London, was well prepared to describe the pathetic conditions seen among the very poor of this great city, and his skill in portrayal made his word pictures seem very real. Mr. Sainsbury left Wednesday evening for Chicago where he will deliver this lecture before the officers of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau.

Mrs. E. A. Domes spent Tuesday in Orfordville with friends.

Mrs. Heyerdahl, Mrs. Fred Cole, Mrs. George Smiley, Mrs. Liston and Mrs. Wells drove to Broadhead, Tuesday evening to attend a play.

Mrs. Alma Wells is a guest of her brother, Dr. J. N. Wells.

Neil Heggard, who was injured in a corn cutter, may regain the full use of his foot. The distance of the wound from the ankle cords makes his recovery more certain.

Turkish soldiers on way to Balkan frontier.

Turkish statesmen appreciate the fact that they have a big task on their hands to defeat the Balkan allies, and work has gone forth from Constantinople that probably every able-bodied man in the empire will be called upon to take up arms. Turkey's organized force is 725,000, while the allies can muster a much larger army if necessary. Many thousands of Turkish soldiers have already left Constantinople for the Balkan frontier, and more thousands are being mobilized there for immediate service.

Medical Graduates Decreasing.

While the number of persons engaging in the practice of medicine in the United States has decreased somewhat in the last two or three years, it is still large enough to provide for the public needs. It appears that 6,960 physicians were examined last year for licenses to practice, as against 7,004 in 1910, 7,287 in 1909 and 7,779 in 1908. Of the 6,960 applicants for licenses last year nearly 20 per cent. failed to pass examinations. In the states of North Carolina, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Oregon and Tennessee, in which non-graduates of medical schools are eligible to examination, 230 applicants were examined and more than 28 per cent. of them failed.

Terrible Suffering

Eczema All Over Baby's Body.

"When my baby was four months old his face broke out with eczema, and at sixteen months of age, his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczema spread all over his body. We had to put a musk or cloth over his face and tie up his hands. Finally we gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a few months he was entirely cured. Today he is a healthy boy." Mrs. Mrs. Lewis, Easton, Maine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures blood diseases and builds up the system.

THE KAFFIR ORANGE.

A new food product of special interest to physicians is the Kaffir orange described by Dr. J. K. Smead in the Journal of the New York Botanical Garden.

Reports and records of edible fruits of Strychnos or fruits closely related to those of strychnine and nuxvomica plants, have been current for many years. They, however, have often been seriously doubted.

In the spring of 1903, Dr. David Fairchild introduced plants of a species of Strychnos from Portuguese East Africa into the Subtropical Garden of the United States Department of Agriculture at Miami, Florida. These plants are said to reproduce the species of Strychnos spinosa. This plant is native of the desert region. At Miami it is a spine-armed shrub of slow growth, especially in its younger stage, with a rambling habit, more or less drooping, very slender branches, small leaves, and very small, as well as inconspicuous, clustered flowers. The size of the branches, the leaves, and the flowers are each and all out of proportion to the size and the weights of the fruits. These are globular, and superficially they resemble an orange, even to the external coloring, whence, in connection with its geographical range, the name "Kaffir orange." The fruit varies from three to four inches in diameter and weigh between one and two pounds each. However, the likeness to an orange ceases with the outside of the rind. This cannot be removed with the fingers or with a knife, as in the case of an orange, but a hammer or some similar instrument is needed to get at the pulp within the "Kaffir orange." The rind is about an eighth of an inch in thickness, hard and somewhat brittle. Within the rind the pulp is of different shades of red or pink. It is sweet, and in flavor suggests that of a good cantaloupe. Unlike an orange, too, the seeds of the "Kaffir orange" are poisonous, so that in eating the pulp in which the seeds are embedded, great care must be taken to eliminate all the seeds. The seeds closely resemble those of the related nuxvomica plant, and they are rendered especially easy to swallow by a silken hair coat which envelopes each of them.

The accompanying figure represents the two specimens of "Kaffir orange" received at the Garden through the kindness of Mr. Edward Simmonds, Gardener of the Subtropical Garden of the United States Department of Agriculture at Miami, Florida, as far as we know the first illustration of this interesting edible fruit. The fruits as they appear in the figure are about one-half natural size.

Improved Capstan.

A capstan is built into a new block and tackle with which one man can handle loads of one thousand pounds and two men, loads of four thousand pounds.

The atmosphere has been characterized by rapid changes since yesterday. The disturbance that was in the lower Mississippi valley has moved on a parallel line and is now in the East Gulf states. It has been attended by heavy rains in the Lower Mississippi and Ohio valleys, and light rains throughout the Appalachian region. A secondary depression that formed in the northern Plateau region yesterday is now over the Central states, and is accompanied by fair weather and a drop of 15° or 20° degrees in temperature. Its place on the north Pacific coast is occupied by an immense barometric depression, attended by gales and general rainfall.

Little Bits of Tented Life That Are Interesting.

BY D. W. WATT

Back in the early eighties when the bitter warfare was going on between the Barnum and Bailey and the Adam Forepaugh show, people of all kinds who were well up in the business could demand larger salaries than at any other time. Both shows were anxious to get the best both in agents and performers, and in fact in any line pertaining to the circus business. The white elephant season was the one season when agents and performers got their own prices. That year Adam Forepaugh engaged what was known in those days as the "Big Trio," J. E. Warner, whose home was in Lansing, Michigan, was general agent and supposed to be the best general agent in the country. He was a high class man in every way, owned a beautiful home there in Lansing, and several times before and since has been mayor of the city.

William Durand, whose home was in Indianapolis was the newspaper man. He wrote all the small bills and got out all of the advertisements during the winter for the coming season. He also had a reputation of being the best man in his line of work in the United States.

The other man was Charles Fuller. Charlie Fuller's home was in New York and he was the railroad contracting agent. He knew all the superintendents and when the show would be coming his headquarters for two or three months at a time would be in Chicago. Here he could contract for all of his western business for almost the entire season. His work would usually close early in October and he would have nothing more to do until he would commence work again for the coming season.

These three men for their services the year of the white elephant were paid $7,000 each and all expenses. But along in September of that year peace was declared between the two great shows and the country was divided. One of the shows would stay east for a season and the other in the west and then alternate the next season. After this was done it put an end to the big salaries to a certain extent.

This was the last season that J. E. Warner represented the show and Fuller the railroad contracting agent stayed but one year after that. Bill Durand stayed with the show. I think two years longer and one morning after leaving his home in Indianapolis he walked over to the depot to take a train and suddenly dropped dead on the depot platform. Durand was a great writer and knew the business thoroughly from one end to the other. In the winter in a great printing house he would order his own paper for the entire season and so close would he make his figures that little or nothing was left over for the next season.

James A. Bailey for the Barnum show and Adam Forepaugh for the Forepaugh show drew up articles and signed them, dividing the country for five years. This was done in the ticket wagon of the Forepaugh show early in September on the show grounds at State and 23rd street in Chicago. I have forgotten just the date but I was one of the witnesses of the contract.

This season while we were coming west all the way from Philadelphia to Chicago the Barnum show was following up from a week to ten days behind us, hiring new lots and building new bill boards at anywhere from 50 to 100 per cent more than the cost would have been had the shows divided the country before. And while both shows were taking in a work of money, there was little or nothing left after the enormous expenses were paid.

The next season Mr. Fuller's contract expired and a man by the name of Mike Doyle took his place and did all the railroad contracting for the show up to the time Mr. Forepaugh died. Mike Doyle proved to be one of the best contractors in the country and stayed with the Forepaugh and Buffalo Bill shows up till about three years ago. I think he did all the railroad contracting for both shows for something like 25 years when he retired, and is still living with a maiden sister in Syracuse, New York.

Mr. Durand's place in the newspaper work was taken by W. E. Coxsey who was then quite a young man and circus business was new to him. He stayed with the show for some years and later got into magazine work and with his family is now living in the suburbs of Chicago.

J. E. Warner's place as general agent was filled by Louis E. Cook, whose home is in Newark, New Jersey, a suburb of New York, where he owns one of the finest homes in the city. Mr. Cook always liked the business and from that time on was general agent with the Forepaugh and Barnum shows till after the time they were sold to Ringlings and then he went to the Buffalo Bill show and is still general agent for that show.

and his money has helped many a man out of Chicago and on the road to success. I left the Forepaugh show at Peru, Ind., once on a Thursday and came through to Chicago to see if I could get a permit to open a side show on the lake front on Sunday. We were to open the following Monday there for two weeks' engagement, but up to that time no show has been allowed to show in Chicago on Sunday under canvas on the lake front. I went to Mr. Lehman's office in the great Fair Store and told him what I wanted. He called a carriage and we started out and in less than two hours we were back in his office and he had fixed everything so that I could open a side show on the lake front Sunday morning. This I did and the receipts were the largest in the history of the side show. Mr. Lehman was always ready to do a good turn for a friend and but few people in those days had more influence in Chicago than E. J. Lehman. These are simply a few happenings along the road as I found them at different times while in the business and I thought they might be interesting to you.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE WALK TO THE WINDOW.
If your world needs you it will find you.

It will hunt you up and come to your doorway and knock.

Or if you do business at a window, as does A. H. Clark of Mount Sterling, Ill., it will find its way to your window.

It is a much frequented walk, that walk to Mr. Clark's window. He has a front door to his house with a cement walk leading thereto. And he has another walk, but narrower, that runs diagonally to the corner of his house and thence to a window.

Right under this window the narrow walk gets larger. It affords standing room for two or three men.

And Mr. Clark's world comes to his window. Almost there is a procession, and when you stand near the window you can see that Mr. Clark is reclining on his bed.

This is why: Twenty-five years ago the lower half of his body was paralyzed. To all appearance that was the knockout blow for Mr. Clark, for he was a farmer and stockman.

Nevertheless—Instead of this affliction ending his career it was rather the beginning of greater activity and prosperity and usefulness.

He used the window and the walk to the window.

Usually Mr. Clark feeds about 500 cattle every winter. He never sees one of them, but he sees and knows the men who do. Lying on his bed and using his brains—and other men—he has been unusually successful.

Moreover—

He is acutely interested in the world's affairs and in the affairs of his neighborhood. He is a devoted member and supporter of his church. On Sunday a telephone catches for his eager ear every word of sermon and of song that enters into the worship of the day.

But, best of all—

He is mentor and confidant of the men and women and children who at all hours of the day come over the walk to his window for counsel and encouragement. Seldom do they go away unhelped.

There is the picture: With hearty, smiling face inside his window, where the walk enlarges and ends; lies the patient man who gives hope and cheer. His world needs and finds him.

When you once pay the bill for a table or bed, the matter is closed as far as expense is concerned.

But with a stove, the first cost is only a beginning—a trifling amount when you consider the cost of the fuel that stove will consume during its lifetime.

There are a lot of heating stoves that loot the family purse—burn twice as much fuel as a FAVORITE BASE BURNER would require to do the same amount of work.

The Favorite saves one-half on coal bills and throws out more heat. There is no other Base Burner like it; for the features that make it such a wonderful and economical heater are patented.

Don't put up with the wastefulness and extravagance of a cheap stove. Buy a FAVORITE BASE BURNER. It will save you money every day it is in use, and bring such comfort and satisfaction, too.

Old French Furniture.

The old French cabinet makers, like the old masters in violin making, had the fashion of stamping their names on their manufactures. Today a cabinet or secretaire with the name of an old French master cabinet maker, maitre ebeniste, may bring a great price. Such was the case a short time ago when a commode signed C. C. Saunier, M. E., brought in Paris $25,200.

Royalty of Virtue.

If there be no nobility of descent, all the more indispensable is it that there should be nobility of ascent—a character in them, that bear rule so fine and high and pure that as men come within the circle of its influence they involuntarily pay homage to that which is the one pre-eminent distinction, the royalty of virtue.—Bishop Henry C. Potter.

GRAY SERGE FROCK FOR OCTOBER WEAR

Here is a smart frock of gray serge trimmed with cloth forming bands at the front of the dress and on the sleeves. Collar and cuffs of white cloth. Insert of black and white embroidery at the front. The waist is laid in plaits at either side. The skirt is in two pieces, full on top and plain bottom. The waist can be detached from the skirt.

AFTERNOON GOWN OF CHIFFON CLOTH

Here is an afternoon gown of carot-colored chiffon cloth, with only hemstitching for trimming; the chiffon is draped about the figure, with a suggestion of panier on one side; the sleeves are kimono, with a seam half way between neck and shoulder, and down under the arm, half way between shoulder and elbow, there is another seam, which gives the appearance of a piece set in to form the kimono. The sleeves are long and close-fitting. The only color note is the faint glimpse of a gold-red lining, carefully veiled, and a belt of the same color as the foliage of the homely vegetable which has given the world of fashion a really new and beautiful color this season.

SOME ANTI-SUFFRAGE FALLACIES

"The suffragists in their speeches and published articles show, that while they propose a stupendous governmental change they have little knowledge of the fundamentals of government, the evolution of representation, the history of politics or the meaning of suffrage."

The anti-suffragists, in their speeches and published articles, show that while they advocate continuing an injustice to half the adult, sane, productive population of our country, they ignore the fact that representative government purports to represent all the people, that the first issue in the history of our politics was "No taxation without representation," and that this same history is a record of the gradual extension of the franchise to new classes, always bitterly opposed by a portion of the existing electorate with the same threadbare arguments now advanced against woman suffrage. It is natural that the unenfranchised should not understand voting. Such knowledge is gained by experience. To exclude women from the chance to learn is as ridiculous as to forbid a child the floor because he has not already proved his ability to walk. That women are not incapable of winning distinction in legal and governmental fields is proven by such women as Josephine Goldmark, who prepares his briefs for Brandies, "the attorney to the people," and Julia Lathrop who heads what the newspapers call "the most important federal bureau." The women of California have already taken up the study of government with a seriousness that shames the ordinary voter's dabblings in personalities.

"No electorate has ever existed nor ever can exist that cannot execute its own laws. No voter has ever claimed a claim maintenance from another voter."

These fantastic propositions are strictures, not upon woman suffrage, but upon the present extent of the franchise. If it is to come to a showdown of physical strength we must disenfranchise most of our ministers and doctors and a good many of our lawyers, as well as our business men whose sedentary, intellectual occupations have unfitted them to resist the physiques of day laborers at the polls, and give our prize-fighters as many votes apiece as they can register by knocking out other citizens. Force today is delegated to the policeman and the soldier who is controlled directly or indirectly by the voter and taxpayer.

If voters cannot claim maintenance from other voters, they certainly cannot claim it from disenfranchised persons. If we make the vote the reward of productivity we must disenfranchise all the men who are supported by their wives, mothers or sisters (and according to economists their number is not few), and we must enfranchise all the 8,000,000 working women in the United States. And we must give the vote to all the home-keepers, whose cooking and sewing and saving contributes as much to the family prosperity as does the weekly pay envelope, and whose child-bearing contributes as much to the national wealth as does the man-killing of the soldier. It is curious that the home maker's work is so underestimated that the census taker lists her as a woman of "no occupation."

As for socialism, women have already declared their interest in the Democratic and Republican, as well as in the Socialist party. True, women are everywhere much concerned in those so-called "philanthropic" issues which concern the conservation of our most valuable national resource, human life, rather than in "dollar diplomacy" and new torpedo-boat destroyers, but so are the most far-seeing statesmen of every party. Capitalists should be as concerned in this as socialists, for a race of workers who have had a fair chance mean more dollars and cents in the end than a cheap output today and a broken race tomorrow.

"Women voters would become a privileged class." If voting is a privilege then men are already a privileged class and our nation which claims to have no privileged classes can only put all its citizens on a basis of equality by enfranchising its women citizens, who are as intelligent as valuable and as entitled to representation as its men.

Oriental Rugs

Oriental As Merchandise

Why We Excel in Values—

We Sell Rugs, Not Pedigrees. Wearing Qualities Are Needed Most.

We are running a carpet department, not a curiosity shop. Merchandise is merchandise to us, no matter whether it comes from Persia or elsewhere.

Why should we add an enormous profit on Oriental rugs because they happen to have been made in the Orient.

We are not selling pedigrees, that's the business of the little specialty shop, where time is no object to the proprietor and money none to the customer.

Our business runs at high pressure, and our customers are more interested in wear than ancient history. They buy Oriental Rugs because they look well and wear well; they have neither the inclination nor the money to turn their houses into homes for aged and indigent Oriental rugs.

So We Treat Oriental Rugs As We Do Domestic.

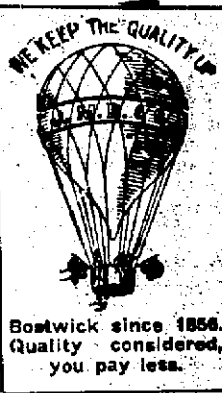

We buy only good grade pieces which we can turn over quickly. The historic "relics" which run into large investments for a single piece, we leave to the antique shops.

Then we add just one reasonable merchandising profit on our Oriental Rugs. By being careful to explain the features and merit of each particular piece we have earned the confidence of our customers. These are the methods that have built up the Big Store.

Let us show you the greatest values in Oriental Rugs ever shown in Southern Wisconsin.

Values up to $1000, but they cost you much less than that at The Big Store.

We Stand Back of Every Rug

AT EVERY SEASON OF THE YEAR YOU WILL FIND OUR FLOWERS NOTICEABLE FOR THEIR SIZE, BRILLIANCY OF COLOR, FRESHNESS AND DELICACY OF PERFUME.

Our Roses and Carnations are indeed worthy of special mention since they are to be found here at their best in every season, and we can supply your favorite varieties in the highest standard of perfection. At the present time we are offering Chrysanthemums in pink and white that are superb; nowhere can you find better ones, and

Our Prices Are Most Reasonable

We are the largest growers of 'mums in this locality. Our telephone service offers you a pleasant and reliable means of placing your order with us, and you are assured of satisfactory service. Dollar for dollar we give you the most value for your money, so why not give us a trial?

History of "Old Abe," Famous War Eagle of Eighth Regiment

The Wisconsin regiments engaged in the fighting in the War of the Rebellion were noted throughout the country for the bravery and courage of the men enlisted in their ranks, but of the regiment that went out from the Badger state, none was more famed than the Eighth, the "Old Abe" regiment, so-called because of its mascot, "Old Abe," the bald eagle which accompanied the regiment from the time it left Wisconsin until its return. After the war the eagle was kept in a cage at the state capitol, but was taken to reunions of the regiment and many meetings of national interest. The bird became a national figure, so to speak, and on its death, it was stuffed and placed in the War Museum at Madison. As a mascot, the war-bird was fondly cherished by the "Boys of '61" of the Eighth regiment, who claimed him as a comrade.

Of this regiment one company was from Janesville. The Old Janesville Guards, who were assigned as Company G. The late Col. W. B. Britton went out as captain of the company, which was the first to be assigned to the regiment, being mustered in on September 4, 1861. Of the regiment, there are now four men living in the city who were members of it. They are: C. N. Riker, commander of the local post, G. A. R. J. L. Boat, Charles Viney, and David Lawrence. James Rogers, at so of this city, went out with the company and the regiment, but was transferred after entering the war.

A history of "Old Abe" was published in the Eau Claire Leader recently, and is printed below. It reads as follows:

"Old Abe," the world famous eagle was captured during sugar-making time in 1861, on the Flambeau river, near the line between Ashland and Pierce Counties, in Wisconsin, by a Chippewa Indian named Chief Sky. His birthplace was in a large tub-like nest of mud and sticks, on a tall pine, which the Indian felled amidst the screams and menaces of the old birds, for the purpose of capturing the young.

Chief Sky was the son of Thunder of Bees, chief of the Flambeau band of Chippewas, who, a few weeks later, led his people down the river for the purpose of disposing of their baskets, furs and moccasins. While on the road he sold the young bird to Daniel McCann, of Eagle Point, for a barrel of corn.

And for this paltry sum was the noble bird sold from freedom to captivity, from barbarism to civilization, from the moan of pines to the crash of battles, from obscurity to fame.

McCann carried the eagle to Chippewa Falls and attempted to sell him to a company just recruiting there for the First Wisconsin Battery. Failing in this, he proceeded a little later to Eau Claire and offered the bird, now nearly full-grown and handsome, but a scorpion, to the Eau Claire "Badger," that subsequently became Company C, of the Eighth or Eagle Regiment.

Capt. John E. Perkins hesitated at first about accepting such a strange volunteer, but finally agreed to take him to the front.

It was mainly through the sagacity and foresight of R. R. Wilson, an influential resident, who argued "nothing could be better chosen, not even the flag itself, to ensure fame and success," they looked upon it in favorable light, and after a surgeon-like examination of the eyes, claws, beak, wings and plumage, concluded by a jocular vote to accept "the new recruit from Chippewa." A little flurry ensued about contributions, when S. M. Jeffers, a civilian, purchased the bird for two dollars and a half, and presented it to the company.

In due time the Eagle was sworn into the United States service by putting around his neck red, white and blue ribbons, and on his breast a rosette of the same colors.

James McGinnis craved the privilege of superintending the eagle, to which all tacitly assented.

In a few days he produced quite a respectable perch and two patriotic ladies made some little flags to be carried on each side of him, when on the march; and gay and imposing indeed did he appear as he rode in imperial state beneath those miniature "stars and stripes," through the principal streets of Eau Claire, inspired by martial music and cheered by the enthusiastic people.

The Eau Claire Free Press, of September 5, 1861, publishes the first newspaper notice of his honor: "The Eau Claire Badgers are going into battle under the protective aegis of the veritable American Eagle. It was captured by the Indians of the Chippewa river, and purchased by the Badgers. Its perch is to be the flag staff of the Stars and Stripes. Who could not fight under so glorious emblems?"

On Sept. 6, 1861, with bands playing, banners flying and people shouting, the Eau Claire Eagles marched from camp down to the Chippewa river, on their way to Camp Randall, at Madison, where they were to be mustered in.

Abe, though somewhat astonished, seemed to thoroughly enjoy the novel and inspiring scene, perched proudly on his shield between the flags presented by the Ladies' Aid Society, his smooth, graceful neck encircled with ribbons of red, white and blue.

Right heartily did the people cheer the boys as they marched away! Many remarked: "They will never be whipped while they follow that bird," and the Free Press properly enquired: "Who could not fight under such glorious emblems?"

The boys boarded the steamer Stella Whipple amidst the sobs, blessings and good-byes which all soldiers have witnessed and will never forget, and in a gloomy rain storm which nobody noticed.

Toward evening of the next day, when within hailing distance of La Crosse, Wisconsin the steamer sent forth her semi-bugle notes, announcing arrival.

In ten minutes the news was heralded through the city, that a "Company of soldiers from the Chippewa Valley has come with a live American Eagle!" Crowds lined the wharf, and just as the boat landed, a salute from the 1st Wisconsin Battery, by order of Capt. Foster, was fired, followed by cheers from civilians and soldiers.

All eyes were upon the Eagle, and deafening were the hurrahs in his favor. It was a thrilling enthusiasm of all that heaving mass of patriots. Capt. Perkins was here offered two hundred dollars for the Eagle.

Quite a sudden rise in value from a bushel of corn. Courteously declining, the Captain replied, "The Eagle belongs to the company, and no money can buy him." Presented to the State. At the close of his war career "Old Abe" was presented by the company to the state and a place was provided for him at the state capitol at Madison, where he was viewed by thousands. He was also taken to various parts of the United States, being in great demand all over. He attended national conventions, was taken to the great centennial at Philadelphia and other noted gatherings where he was the center of attraction. Space forbids a more detailed history of incidents and anecdotes concerning this famous war-bird.

He was adored by the members of the Eagle Company and the Eagle Regiment and on the field of battle he was always able to locate his regiment and company. The war anecdotes alone in which this bird figured would fill a book. He also attended the regimental reunions.

Old Abe's Semi-Comic Death. Toward evening of a cold day in the winter of 1881 a fire started mysteriously in a quantity of paints and oils stored in the basement of the capitol, near Old Abe's large cage. The blaze created an enormous volume of black and offensive smoke, which at once filled the cage to suffocation.

Abe, understanding full well the nature of what was going on around him, sent forth such a scream as had never before been heard in that building. Attendants and watchmen rushing below to learn the cause of the startling outcry, and before attacking the flames, opened the door of the perch-room. The eagle, with another piercing screech, swept swiftly out and away from the smudge.

He seemed to be either frightened or injured by the smoke, for his breast heaved, his heart labored heavily and his plumage was disheveled. Nor was he ever well thereafter. He ate sparingly or not at all; his eyes lost their wonderful luster; he sat around in a half-comatose condition for a few days, and on March 26, 1881, with a slight tremor and a few feeble flaps of his wings, expired in the arms of his stout keeper, George Gillies.

George said that Abe seemed to know he was about to die, for when he asked solicitously, "must we lose you, Abe?" the old bird raised up his head and looked wistfully into the keeper's face and then sunk back into his arms and passed away. Around him were numbers of one-legged and one-armed veterans whose sad faces showed that they had lost a beloved comrade.

At first the general desire among the soldiers was to have Abe buried in the beautiful Forest Hill Cemetery, where rest two hundred Union and one hundred and fifty Confederate dead, with appropriate military ceremonies, and under a handsome monument.

The suggestion that the taxidermist's art would preserve him to the sight for an indefinite period dispelled those notions, and he was turned over to Maj. C. G. Mayers, who, after preserving and stuffing the warrior bird, fixed him firmly to a neat perch as he stood for years in the War Museum at the capitol.

His mounted body was destroyed in the second capital fire some years later.

BY WALT MASON

The winter's at the door, and soon we'll hear the roar of tempests loud and raucous; before the fire, ere long, we'll sit, a cheerful throng, and hold the evening caucus. Oh, winter has its joys for healthy girls and boys—to nail 'em they'll endeavor; but there's one long felt want, one sorrow that will haunt the little ones forever. For when the winter comes the fly no longer hums around the cheerful kitchen; and Willie—darling tot! can't hump around a n d swat until he busts his breechin'!

The winter five-side game grows tedious and tame, the crokinole and checkers; and eyelids heavy grow when reading poems by Poe or Dickens' double-deckers. The ancient Blind Man's Bluff is rather cloying stuff, and dominoes are silly; what wonder if a sigh, a sad and doleful cry should come from little Willie? His martial soul is sick to seize his swatting stick and chase the flies and hide 'em; it is the sport of kings, and little boys, by jings! In winter it's denied 'em. Alas, that flies to Augusts and Julys are always relegated! If they could buzz their tunes in winters as in June, they'd be appreciated!

SARAH PADDEN IN "KINDLING."

"KINDLING."

The success obtained by Sarah Padden as Maggie Schultz, the stevedore's wife, in Charles Kenyon's altruistic three act play "Kindling," when it was produced early this year, is still fresh in the minds of the theatregoers and the announcement that she will appear here Saturday, Nov. 2, matinee and night, in the same play will be welcome news to many people.

The admirable quality of Miss Padden's acting in this role has accomplished much toward emphasizing her high position and connection with the American stage.

The remarkable character of the Kenyon play places it in the category of world-dramas of note. Its theme—the simple one of husband and wife and a breach, not immoral, of the law—is treated with a marvelous perception of the laws of mystery and passion. The author depicts the effect upon a highly distracted woman of the working class, who, in an effort to provide for the future of her unborn babe, born honorably, violates the moral code by a petty theft of jewelry. The interest of the play centers around the unfortunate wife; a personality colored by the mental states through which she passes—dawning love, blind passion, maternal solicitude and tenderness, doubt, apprehension, defiance, sorrow and final despair—the whole of an expectant mother's heart laid bare.

The realism of "Kindling" is supreme and merciless. Its fidelity to the life it depicts; the strong and authoritative limning of the people who exist on the lower side of pitiless New York—above all its masterly treatment of a theme of world-wide interest, and with its inherent cleanliness, places it amongst the first plays of the day.

The entire production is identical with the same as was used at the Cort Theatre, Chicago, during an engagement of a hundred nights.

PIMPLES ALMOST COVERED FACE

Blackheads Also Suffered Greatly. Red and Irritated. Unsightly. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Face Was Cleared.

Atchison, Kan. — "For a number of years I suffered very greatly from skin eruptions. My face was very red and irritated. Being almost covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over my face. They were a fine rash with the exception of a few large pimples on my forehead and chin. My face burned and looked red if exposed to either heat or cold. It was not only unsightly but very uncomfortable. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I applied the Cuticura Soap in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. After about several times during the day. After about four months of this application, my face was cleared of the pimples. I still use the Cuticura Soap. I will be glad to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone suffering from skin diseases." (Signed) Miss Elsie Nielson, Dec. 29, 1911.

CONCRETE PAVEMENT PUT DOWN IN ALEDO

City of Less Than Two Thousand Population Paving Twenty-Six Blocks—Methods Used.

Streets built of cement and to cost $100,000 are now being constructed in Aleddo, Ill., a thriving city of 1,857 people in Mercer county.

The property owners are paying $90,000 and the city is paying $10,000 for the improvement.

Only special assessment bonds were issued and the city is paying its share of the work from the general funds.

It was found that the property owners on unpaved streets are clamoring for paved streets. They say that all of the new house construction and real estate transfers are taking place along the paved streets while there is nothing going on the unpaved streets. It is said that it will be only a few years until Aleddo will be the best paved town in the country. Prior to this year, however, Aleddo did not have a foot of paving. It is now installing a total of 87,000 square yards of paving or a total of 77 blocks.

The specifications call for cement road bed six inches deep, the mixtures being one part cement to six parts sand and gravel. The gravel and sand is secured from the Mississippi river and is delivered on Aleddo streets for $1.33 a cubic yard, while the cost in Sterling is 93 cents.

The cement is poured, and there is only one layer. There is no top dressing and there is no attempt to smooth the top. Expansion joints appear across the street every twenty feet, also along the curbs. For the purpose of drainage a four inch tile is laid just inside the curb and under the cement. The subgrade is thoroughly rolled and packed.

After the cement is set and hardened, the expansion joints are filled with asphalt, and a slight coating of asphalt tar or some patented article, called Doloway paving is placed on it. This is covered with sand.

It would appear that the cost of the streets to the Aleddo property is no object. The cost was from three to four dollars a running foot, and five, six and seven dollars a running or lineal foot in the business part of the town. The property owners were given ten years to pay the cost. The city paid its share from the general fund.

LIGHT OIL NOT SO GOOD FOR APPLYING TO STREETS

That the success attendant upon oiling Madison streets this summer, while satisfactory was not as great as that obtained last year, and that the failure to secure the same results was due to the change in the grade of the oil, is the opinion of Superintendent of Streets Sullivan.

"While the results obtained from the new oil, have on the whole been fairly satisfactory, and while the oil is a good dust layer, still it does not stick as well on brick pavements, and does not leave the street in as good condition as the grade oil we used on the streets last summer," said Superintendent Sullivan.

The oil used in oiling the streets last summer contained a higher percentage of asphalt than is contained in the oil used this summer and the effect on the surface of the streets was noticeably better. When the oil dried, it left on the surface of the road, a rubbery pad that was very good for teams to drive over. The oil used last summer was purchased as "65 per cent asphalt," containing 65 per cent of asphalt. It was easily laid and dried rapidly. When used on brick pavements, which are the hardest type of road to oil, it formed a very good surfacing and stuck well.

The new grade of oil used this summer contained only 60 per cent of asphalt. It was used over between eight and nine miles of road in the city, and while it proved efficient as a dust layer, it did not leave the streets in as good a condition. It lacked the firmness that the higher grade of oil possessed when it dried, and left a rather sticky top to the road. The place where the greatest difficulty with the new oil was experienced was in laying it on brick paved roads. The oil did not stick to the bricks, but ran off to the sides of the street.

During the past summer, between eight and nine miles of pavement were treated with oil. Nine tank carloads of oil were used by the city department.—State Journal.

CITY OF NORTHAMPTON HAS MUNICIPAL THEATRE

Northampton, Mass., is probably the first American city to undertake municipally the conduct of a theatre. Other American cities have owned theatre buildings and buildings containing theatres, but they have not so far as we know, provided and stood sponsor for the stage entertainment.

The city of Northampton has owned a handsome playhouse for twenty years—the gift of a public spirited citizen. But the community had little good of the benefaction. Year after year, it has been farmed out to a "manager," who has run the institution as best he might in the interests of his pocketbook.

Like all communities of 20,000 or thereabouts, the attractions coming to Northampton have been deteriorating. While it is the home of Smith college with an attendance of 1,600, the bulk of the inhabitants are workers in the big mills and factories in the neighborhood. This was an added incentive to shows of the "tent-twenty-third" caliber. Leading citizens finally came to the conclusion that the people were worthy of better things, at least worthy of the chance to demonstrate their taste. So a stock company of capable professional players has been organized, and a board of trustees composed of the mayor, the son of the theatre's donor, the president of Smith college and other citizens placed in charge. Miss Jessie Bonville, a successful stock company manager, and Bertram Harrison, for many years with the Frohman and Shubert enterprises, will have direct charge of theatre and stage.

The object of the trustees is indicated in these words of the president:

"We start our new company under conditions which we regard as compelling, not from any vaulting ambition on our part of reforming the stage or elevating the drama, but simply from a desire to provide wholesome recreation at reasonable cost."

The great difficulty of selecting and obtaining plays that will satisfy the old inhabitants, the fact that the hands and the college people is not underestimated by the managers, and they feel their responsibility the more because the continuance of the enterprise by the city depends upon its ability to pay for itself the first year.—Milwaukee Free Press.

RECOMMENDS AIR LIFT WATER SUPPLY SYSTEM

(Fond du Lac Commonwealthe.)

W. H. Masson, superintendent of the city water department, has returned from St. Paul, Minn., where he inspected the air lift system of pumping that is used in that city and which is being considered for adoption in this city.

Mr. Masson is enthusiastic over the air lift idea and will recommend its adoption here in preference to the use of electrical power. St. Paul, according to Mr. Masson, has found that it is far more economical than electricity or steam, the cost of installation being considerably cheaper, or while the maintenance is, but a fraction of what the expense of keeping up electrical or steam equipment would be.

The air lift system does away with pumps, but insures a heavy and steady water supply. The St. Paul system provides 6,000,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours. In the opinion of Mr. Masson the system could be used in Fond du Lac to excellent advantage. Of the nine wells here, eight could be equipped with the air system. A guarantee of 4,000,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours is made by the installers for this city. Not only according to Mr. Masson, would the first cost and cost of maintenance be reduced, but it would be possible to cut down the working force at the pumping plant, thus making another saving.

BIDS FOR CONSTRUCTION OF GARBAGE INCINERATOR ARE RECEIVED IN RACINE

James Corse of this city, was the lowest bidder at the meeting of the board of public work for the construction of the refuse incinerator plant to be built on Stanard street. His bid for the building complete and in accordance with the plans and specifications, was $21,000. If deductions are made because of leaving out certain items the bid will be $14,900.

The work must be completed on or before the 1st day of February, 1913. It is now believed, taking the lowest bid into consideration, that the site, buildings, complete and putting the plant in operation, can be done with $30,000 appropriated.—Racine Times.

WHY WHO'S WHO.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

THERE is money in music if you can collect it. The average musician, however, is a poor collector, and struggles along on a sluggish, intermittent salary, when he might be wearing changeable silk socks and lolling on the roof garden at $4 per loll. There is more credit extended in the music profession than in any other pursuit, except the grocery business.

Undoubtedly the best collector in musical circles is Harry K. Lauder, who sings Scotch songs with a pure Parisian accent for some thing like $3,000 a week. Mr. Lauder is equipped with a good, strong voice and a liberal supply of thrills.

In addition to a ringing baritone voice, Mr. Lauder has his hands and feet and two plain, rugged knee caps while singing. He is a saving person and uses a good deal of thrift in his costumes, which resemble some of Isadora Duncan's most recherche and unhampered effects. If you want to see the Lauder knee caps in all their pristine protuberance, you should witness him during the heated term.

Mr. Lauder has a rich, warm brogue, which sounds like the conversational efforts of a corn sheller. He is the real oatmeal, however, a natural and irresistible comedian, and can cause more convulsions in an audience than an alarm of fire. It is well worth $2 of anybody's money to see him and his adjustable knee caps in action.

Mr. Lauder is a strict business man and operates only on a cash in advance basis. He has a contract which would make a Brooklyn real estate look like "a Mother Goose rhyme. This contract is bubbling over with imported thrills, and protects the party of the first part against hail, lightning, wind, fire, hoarseness, leg cramps, indisposition and sore throat. The vaudeville manager who signs this contract is as helpless as a one-legged man in a tug of war.

PAVING PROGRESSES ON WASHINGTON ST.

East Side From Maple Court to Mineral Point Avenue Completed—Seven Teams Hauling Stone.

Favorable weather is making possible rapid progress in the laying of macadam pavement on Washington street. The east side of the street, including the space between the car tracks has been paved from Mineral Point avenue to Maple Court and the pavement on the west side of the street from Mineral Point avenue to Highland street will be finished by tonight. The east side of the street is now open to travel as far as Highland avenue. Two-thirds of the subgrading has been done, and George Croft, superintendent for Gund, Graham & Company expects to be all through with that part of the work in four weeks if weather conditions continue favorable. Only a few days will be required to haul in crushed stone and roll it. The sub-grade from Maple to Mohle avenue will be ready for stone tonight. Seven teams are hauling stone from the city crusher. Some delay was experienced in the paving operation because of the street railway raising its tracks from Maple Court to Magnolia avenue. This work was begun about ten days ago and is not yet completed.

"Castors?" he gasped.

"Yes. One at each corner at the bottom."

"But, madam—"

"You see," she went on, "when the bag is packed, it weighs about a ton, or it might as well, so far as my carrying it is concerned. And it is not always possible to find porters at a station, and sometimes it is necessary to walk a block or two to get a street car. And so I thought I would just have some small castors put on the bottom, and then carry a little rope-handle in my pocket; and when I couldn't get a porter, I could just attach the handle to the bag, and trundle it along quite easily. Such a method would be much more sensible than using up all my strength to carry it, don't you think so?"

"But, madam—"

"Ever since I have had to carry that bag, I have thought how nice it would be if I could just roll it along at my side on castors, and not have to lift an ounce. I have often wondered why people didn't have castors put on one end of their suit-cases, and a handle on the other end. Then, they could just up-end the suit-case, and push it along without a bit of trouble. It would be ever so much easier than tugging it the way they do. The castors could be adjustable, and they could be taken out when not needed and carried in the suit-case. Seems to me it's a good idea. Couldn't it be done?"

"But, madam, we have never put castors on a bag."

"No, of course, you haven't. If you had, I should have bought that kind. But that's no reason why you can't put them on. Nobody had wireless a hundred years ago, or flying machines; but they have them now and use them. That excuse is as old as Columbus. Nobody discovered America till he did it, you know."

The clerk looked wildly up and down the aisle. "I—I—don't believe," he said soothingly, "that we could get a bag manufacturer to put castors on his bags."

"Because he never has done it, I suppose. But if I paid him especially to do it," she said ingratiatingly.

"Well, er—you see. There's the buyer," he exclaimed with a sigh of relief. "You might ask him."

And as the lady sought the buyer, the clerk said to a fellow-salesman, "Dippy! Slightly gone! No doubt about it. Whoever heard of castors on a traveling bag?"

Then he thankfully turned to a customer who wanted normal things.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

THE EASIEST WAY.

THE other day I met a fragile little mother leading by the hand a sturdy three-year-old who must have weighed close to forty pounds. At a parting of the ways, the youngster decided to take the wrong road. His mother pleaded; he insisted. Finally he sat down on the curb and howled. Whereupon that frail little woman, who could not have weighed over a hundred pounds herself, picked up that howling, kicking child and carried him towards home.

Although I knew her but slightly I could not help offering my assistance and protesting against the injustice she was doing herself. "He's altogether too heavy for you to carry," I said. "You'll certainly injure yourself."

"I suppose I ought not to do it," said the little mother, as she wearily put him down, "but it's the easiest way."

The easiest way, the easiest way—for how many follies, for how many mistakes and failures, for how much wasted power and inefficiency is that our feeble excuse.

There is a play called "The Easiest Way." You have probably heard of it: the mayor of Boston by banishing it from the stage in his city, most successfully press-agented it for the rest of the country. This play deals with one notorious kind of Easiest Way, but not the only kind by any means. Believe me, The Easiest Way is on the sign-board of more than one path to failure and unhappiness.

When a baby throws his toys from his high chair to the floor and then cries for them, the foolish mother picks them up because "it's the easiest way"—so much easier than teaching him that he must not throw them down.

As he grows older and learns to cry and tease for things she gives in again because that is "the easiest way."

Later she tries to teach him to be orderly about his room but he is so impatient of rebuke that she soon ceases trying to teach him this invaluable habit and picks up after him because "it's the easiest way."

And then, after she has followed this line of procedure all through his childhood, she wonders why he grows up headstrong, disobedient and selfish and generally a spoiled child. There isn't much room for wonder, is there? For the children brought up in "The Easiest Way" are pretty likely to be spoiled children.

A friend of mine often complains that she can never get good service from any maid more than a few months. "No matter how good they are at first," she says, "they soon get sloppy." I rather wondered at her difficulty until I visited her for a few weeks, and then I wondered no longer. For every time that the maid was careless or incompetent about anything, this woman would do the task herself rather than make the girl do it right. "It's the easiest way," she said.

Whisper, while I tell you a secret. There's a very queer thing about all paths marked "The Easiest Way." When you start down them, everything looks pleasant and the path is broad and smooth. But before you have traveled very far, the landscape begins to grow ugly and dismal and the road gets very rough and toilsome. And then you come to a sign-board and look up and what do you think has happened? Why, The Easiest Way has become The Hardest Way.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS HARRIETTA D. GRAVEL

Interior leavening agents, is that cake or bread made with them comes from the oven heavy and streaked, instead of light and well risen and evenly porous throughout. There is a more important side to the question than impure baking powder or stale yeast; overly soured milk, too much soda, and mixtures adulterated with alum and Rochelle salts have an injurious action on our good health. It is only a few years since we had any leavening agents aside from homemade yeast and sour milk mixed with soda. Now compressed yeasts and commercial baking powders have taken their place almost altogether.

Baking powders are a combination of acids and alkalis which, when mixed together and moistened, generate carbonic gas; it is this gas which raises or lightens the flour mixtures.

Pure baking powder is made from various chemicals as well as from cream of tartar and baking soda. It is impossible for one to make as good a quality of baking powder at home as that produced by manufacturers, for it should be mixed by weight and the ingredients well incorporated. But there are women who do "make their own baking powder in order to insure its perfect purity. The proper proportions are one part best cream of tartar and two parts soda; add an equal amount of cornstarch to keep the powders separate and from caking. Sift very well several times and keep well stoppered.

Alum is the most common adulterant used. It states the sale of alum powder is prohibited on account of its poisonous properties. Ammonia is another drug that is used for a substitute and, greatly condemned for it is a product of animal and vegetable decomposition and an active poison.

If you are using any but the best grades of baking powders you may be sure that you are using some of these adulterants in your family food. Pure baking powders give fine-grained cakes and biscuits and a special point of excellence is that the food made with them keeps moist and fresh longer than when made with poor ingredients.

Soda alone, when mixed with water, will give off enough gas to raise a flour mixture, but the color will be greenish yellow and strongly alkaline. To neutralize this an acid is added, as sour milk or even molasses. This is an economical form of leavening and is now considered a wholesome one.

Who made the first yeast and how does it grow are questions of interest to every one who has ever watched the leavening of bread. Biology gives the "isms" and the theories of the case, but even the great Liebig himself could not explain the presence of the bacteria in the yeast plant. Yet we do know that heat, cold and chemical agents kill this plant life, so that only fresh sweet yeast can make our baking porous and light.

HELPFUL HINTS AND SEASONABLE RECIPES.

When straining fruit for jelly, if it is first put through the colander, then only the juice need be put in the bag. Often the pulp may be used for marmalade.

A chilled banana, with one side of the skin removed and eaten with a teaspoon, is a good beginning for breakfast.

Veal Chops With Soubise Sauce.—Wipe six loin chops and put in a stew pan with one-half an onion, eight slices of carrot, two stalks of celery, a half teaspoonful of pepper corns, four cloves, two tablespoonfuls of butter; cover with boiling water and cook until tender. Drain, dip in egg, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in flour and fry in deep fat. Surround with boiled macaroni to which has been added the following sauce: Cook two cupfuls of onions until tender, put through a sieve and add to a white sauce made of chicken stock thickened with two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, then add a half cup of cream.

Heidelberg Cabbage.—Try out two slices of bacon cut in dice, add a head of shredded cabbage, half a cup of vinegar, a teaspoonful of minced onion and pepper; simmer under cover for two hours. Add as little water as possible to keep from burning.

A pear salad covered with a cream dressing and garnished with strips of red pepper is a very attractive salad.

Apple and pineapple preserve is very good and can hardly be told from all pineapple. Use three pounds of apple to one of pineapple, and equal weight of sugar.

Pears as a salad may be garnished with a few preserved or spiced cherries. The color and combination of flavor are both acceptable.

Rice Cakes.—Cook a cupful of rice. When cold, add two cups of milk, the beaten yolks of four eggs and flour to make a stiff batter. Add a tablespoonful of melted butter, a teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and a pinch of salt. Beat the whites of the eggs very stiff and fold in last. Bake on a hot griddle.

Not Her Hero.

"I suppose you are proud of your wife's literary success?" said the intimate friend. "Yes," replied Mr. Stubbs. ## A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS Edna K. Wooley

Now he tries to make out that I impose on him because I lecture him for going out so much at night. He has lodges and singing society. He says he is going for the benefit of the family.

I dress up when I have the clothes to dress with, but have to do the best I can with what I have. Some days I don't get through until supper and have no time to dress.

If I say anything about having too much to do he will say he knows women who have 12 and 14 children and do all their own housework and go out in the fields and help their husbands besides.

When I was feeling so bad before our last baby came I complained. He said he didn't see what ailed me, the women where he came from had their babies out in the fields and in three days were ready to go to work again.

What do you think of a man like that? I get very much discouraged sometimes.

There are five in our family beside my brother-in-law, who boards with us.

I do all my own washing, even to my husband's dress shirts—two every week, with sometimes separate cuffs; all my ironing. The smallest number of dresses I have for the children amounts to fourteen—sometimes more.

I do my own baking—10 loaves of bread a week, all pie and cake, too. I can all fruit, pickles and relishes, make jelly.

I do all the sewing, coats for the children, and bonnets, too.

Took care of the garden half the summer, kept weeds out and planted all the late corn, beans, etc.

Do all housecleaning, beat all the rugs, clean paper and all that is to do at that time.

My husband said this summer that I ought to cut the lawn, too, and last winter he tried to make me shovel the ashes out of the furnace.

I get up at 5:30, sun time, and get to bed at 9:30, sometimes 10 o'clock. He gets up at 7 o'clock, has his breakfast 7:30, sometimes later. He works until 5:30 some evenings. Sometimes he is through earlier, sometimes a little later.

He is out every night excepting Friday and Saturday nights, and last week he was out Friday night, too. He has his vacation every summer—two weeks; never thinks of planning any vacation for his family. "It costs too much."

Finds fault if the gas bill is 60 cents per month; says it ought to be 30 cents. Allows me 5 cents apiece for our meals.

I manage to get my clothes and a part of the children's out of the money I get for board. If I am compelled to ask for more money, he most always makes excuse by saying we have taxes or water rent or something else to pay.

BEWARE OF HAMBURGER STEAK.

Heart failure, due to acute indigestion, following a meal consisting principally of hamburger sandwiches, caused the death of Theodore Stein of Chicago, recently. Such poisoning frequently results from eating spoiled meat, several cases having already been referred to in these hints. Hamburger steak is usually made from scraps of meat that are more or less spoiled, and it is inadvisable to use it at all. Sausage is also likely to contain scraps of meat that have become unfit to eat, and in the selection of any such products it is necessary to use caution—if they are used at all.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a girl of 18 and have had a steady fellow for two and half years. I am in love with him and he told me he loves me but I would not pretend to believe him as boys are so fickle. I sent him a Leap Year valentine for a joke and shortly after he asked me to marry him. I laughed at him and did not give him any answer. His folks think the world of men and want me to ask him to call.

You see one night he told me he could not see me until Sunday, as he had to work Wednesday night. I said "If you don't see me until then you won't see me at all," and he did not. I met him twice since and he has a girl but still thinks the same of me. He is going to join the Navy, but I am trying hard to get him not to. He made a date with me and I "stung" him. Should I tell him I am sorry for what I have done and ask him to call on me? WINNERED.

It seems to me as if you have been rather unkind. A girl can't expect to keep on hurting a man's feelings and hold him loyal to her at the same time.

If his family likes you, tell his mother you are sorry for having been so inconsiderate of him. She will probably tell him and he will ask to call on you. If you really love him you will think of his feeling as well as your own.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I married one son a fine boy, just at the age that year ago a man of my own age, 45, who has a daughter of 12 and a son of 14. The daughter is amiable, he thinks it smart to dictate, criticize, dispute almost everything I say and do. His father never seems to notice, never rebukes him for so doing. Should I humbly submit as I lug? Or is it best to hold my own self-respect, and resent it? Is my husband doing right for the boy, to allow him to speak disrespectfully to me? I have never been anything but kind to him but sometimes patience ceases to be virtue. TROUBLED.

Speak to your husband and tell him that if he has any regard for you he should show it to the boy and command his son to be a gentleman, at least, and pay you the courtesy that he would give any lady. As for the boy—Don't scold him. Give clever answers to his "Smart" remarks. Laugh at him when you can. When it is not a laughing matter show your dignity that he has overstepped the line of gentlemanliness. He is probably angry that his father put another woman into his mother's place and it will take some time to heal his heart.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am terribly in love with a young man who seems to think a lot of me. He goes to work at 5:30 A. M. Then he goes to work at another place at 6 P. M. and works until 11. He wants me to write and gets me mad if I don't, but he never answers as he says he hasn't time, which I know is true. Should I continue to write to him?

CONSTANT READER.
If you are not engaged to marry him, why do you need to write to him at all? Let him get mad. He is rather too busy to be much of a lover, anyway, and you certainly wouldn't want a husband who is at home not quit five hours out of the 24.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY
You will be anxious about material things, especially business ventures, but the signs are propitious, and a successful outcome is indicated. Those born today will possess courage and will try to carry out plans of their own. In this they will usually succeed. Faults to guard against are obstinacy and a tendency to to extremes.

Women and Police Whistles.
Miss Leta Robinson, at one time one of the best-known society belles in Baltimore, has applied to the police department in New York for a police whistle. She is not alone in her request. Several other well-known New York society women have made the same request. They desire the whistle for self-protection. In case of attack they say they will use them.

"Should a similar request be made by one of Baltimore's pretty society buds, what would you do?" was asked Marshal Farman the other day. "I would have to consider the request," was Marshal Farman's answer. "From what I have seen of Baltimore women they can scream loud enough to attract the police without a whistle."—Baltimore American.

Due, Not to Distorted Features, but to her Snaky Hair.

(NOTE.—Medusa, one of the three Gorgons mentioned in Mythology, is described as being a fair maiden of rare and touching beauty. ## FORTY YEARS AGO

Janeyville Daily Gazette, Oct. 19, 1872.—U. Scott's lumber yard horse attempted to deliver a load of shingles and boards on his own responsibility this morning. While he was traversing Main street, Robert Bostwick stepped alongside the wagon and picked up the reins. The bits broke but Robert hung to the straps, struck a lively pace, and held a neck and tail race as far as the Milwaukee street bridge, where Henry Doty was waiting with his new silk hat to receive the cavalier. The northern terminus of the second division of the C. & N. V. railroad is to be removed from Oshkosh to Fond du Lac and a handsome depot and other necessary buildings are to be erected at the latter place. It has been rumored for some time past that a change was contemplated in the limits of this division and the impression prevailed that Janeyville would suffer by this change. This action will set matters at rest, as it is not probable that the northern terminal of the division will be transferred from this city.
E. D. Coe of the Whitewater Register has finally yielded to our appeal and made up a call. He came down here yesterday to finish up his business in connection with Barnum's circus.

BRIGHT SIDE-LIGHTS ON MEN AND ISSUES

ELLIS B. USHER DISCOURSES ON PERSONAL ATTRIBUTES OF ROOSEVELT.

EFFECT OF SHOOTING

Shown Ex-President at His Best—
Situation One to Excite Envy of Senator La Follette.

Milwaukee, Oct. 19.—The overshadowing event of the week has been the Roosevelt tragedy of last Monday evening. That, so far, at least, lacks the fatal element is reason for universal, supreme congratulation, for, much as I disagree with his new political doctrines, I have never been able to question the ultimate sincerity of his purposes, however he might be misled, or to me seem misled, in his mind and methods. Personal experience with him always developed honesty and sincerity, and his staging of the drama on Monday night ought to explain him to some people, who think all his thunder of the sheet-iron variety. Men are, usually, if they have their heads, sincere in the face of death. I believe, from all I hear, I was not there, that Roosevelt's sublime act of Monday night was as natural to him, as his breath. He was unaffected. He was perfectly sincere and perfectly unaffected. He is a man among thousands who could play the role. No little fellow would fit the measure of such an undertaking. The echoes of that cry of alarm rang around the world, as no American's name but his could have carried. I am glad, too, to see the report of the doctors that his physical condition is so excellent as to be an assurance of his recovery. That does not tally with the nasty, malicious stories of his being besotted with alcohol. There are some people in this world who revel in that particular sort of calumny. They seem to think it a virtue in themselves to make drink an especial vice, and to peddle tales of hearsay about better men than themselves. Such stories were constantly recurring about Grant, Cleveland and were an especial target for such serpent tongues, and, of late, Roosevelt has been the mark. His mental and physical activities are perfectly incompatible with any such nonsense. He is not a teetotaler. He makes no such pretensions, but that he is a drunkard is as false as a claim that Cleveland was. Theodore Roosevelt sets the pace for Americans of his time. He is double-gear, and six-cylindered. He exceeds all the speed limits and disobeys all rules of the road.

As he has himself well said, the greater the man the greater his power for evil. Roosevelt has no sense of humor. He takes himself with absolute seriousness. If he did not he could not play the part. This, too, he typifies a general condition. We are no longer a humorous people. There is no "funny" paper now of any general circulation, except those that are funny because they take themselves so seriously. If our sense of humor had not left us, as a people we couldn't possibly keep our faces straight in this campaign. Think of "Our Bob" exhibiting his wounds and telling how Teddy flim-flammed him; and "Our Frank" who "put one over" on Bob by waiting until the senator's foot was in his trap before coming to get it; and "Ike" who is "covering the state" in six weeks, when if he talked to 1000 people a day for the entire time, Sundays included, it would be only 45,000, and about half of them women and non-voters, and there are 700,000 men of voting age in Wisconsin this year.

Of course the shooting of Roosevelt was no joke, and yet, as it was not fatal, the tragedy of his speech with a bullet in him, and his gory vest, and the bullet wound in his manuscript, made a bit of artless perfection that touched the heights "Our Bob" might gaze up to only with a telescope. I met a friend the next morning, a Republican who has just sworn himself in to cast his first Democratic vote, for Wilson, and he looked at me sadly and said: "Did you ever see anything like it! Now, Wilson's got to get shot, or half shot, or something, or he won't be in it at all." This is not intended to be jest. I know the present temper of the people too well to risk it. It is downright, solemn fact that I am dealing in. I mean it. You will "get me," if you only consider for a moment how very, very little we hold over Mexico, just now. You can't have all the things that people have been taught to hold sacred torn up by the roots and put into the rubbish heap. You can't burn down your house as a preliminary and on the pretext that the furniture is not in order, and expect the average citizen to think it is funny. But we don't hear much else talked about, just now. Every Republican and every Democrat, every Socialist, and every Progressive, is accusing somebody, or everybody, of crime, or crookedness. Yet none of them seem to realize that they are all, by the wholesale, accusations, turning state's evidence. "Thou art the man!" ought to be whispered to some of them. They would realize if there was any sense of humor left, how absurd it all is if viewed calmly, and analytically.

The other evening I ran across Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Road, at the Pfister, and, as he always is, I found him cordial and agreeable. He amazed me by saying: "The first time I ever saw you, was at the Democratic State convention, at Fond du Lac, that nominated Judge Mallory for governor. How long ago was that?" I replied that it was in 1877 and was the first state convention that I ever attended. He was a delegate. I was a newspaper man, looking on. He went on to remind me that Wm. F. Vilas, later a member of Cleveland's cabinet and United States Senator, was the young man's candidate for governor, and would have been nominated but that his father, Judge Levi Vilas was a candidate. He was a man of violent temper, and threatened to disinherit William if he got in the way. The father and the future senator were both there and the business was conducted at short range. The convention wanted to nominate Judge J. G. Jenkins, but he backed off, largely because of Greenback sentiment in the convention, and Judge Mallory, who, a short time before had attended and been a candidate before the Greenback convention, was nominated. The Republicans had wobbled so that Horace Rublee called a state ratification meeting, passed a set of sound money resolutions that were, in effect, a new platform, and elected William C. Smith. Sir Thomas was then a Milwaukee alderman and he probably remembered me because we were both for William F. Vilas. I had to admit that his memory was better than mine, but he brought back a whole train of recollections of that first convention. We were both "kids," then, and we will both pass for youngsters yet, if we don't do too much of that sort of reminiscing.

Advertisement.
Speaking of Sir Thomas reminds me of his old friend and competitor, F. D. Underwood. I saw by the papers that he had a challenge out that has been taken up by Dr. Finley, president of the College of the City of New York, to walk to Chicago, and one of the Milwaukee papers, gives Mr. Underwood the unusual credit of being "more than 80 years old," which would indicate a remarkable degree of nerve as Dr. Finley is 48. But the "cub" who wrote that paragraph has, evidently, never seen Mr. Underwood, who, barring the top of his head, doesn't look a day older than he did twenty years ago. He may be 60, but he would have to tell you so. However, I see the proposition is made, now that an Erie train with a sleeper and dinner, accompany this pedestrian exhibition. The fellows who keep the score ought to be watched, or the speed limit will be exceeded. The walk ought to be extended to Milwaukee. We'll turn out Mr. Underwood's old company, the Light Horse Squadron, to escort them up from Racine, if he only had Capt. George Schoeffel, who is now in Erie office, detailed as pace maker.

It is rather an absurdity, isn't it, to have to put "advertisement" over this sort of paragraph. Mr. Underwood doesn't know anything about it, and would, probably, if he had a chance, but it is the law, and I abide by it. Every state paper that I see gives figures showing an increase of taxation. When assessments first began to be raised, and the railroads were to be "soaked," a lot of Wisconsin manufacturers thought it funny. Then the railroads turned around and used all their influence to push up the taxes of manufacturers, until the latter now pay the general property tax, a state income tax, and a national income tax of $50,000,000. That isn't so funny. Now the farmers are being "soaked." The rich corporations are told that their taxes, and the working man is being told that the income tax will all come out of the rich. They will both find out in the end that taxes and public debts, and public expenditures are all rising together, and no matter what "bunc" is handed to them they will have to pay their own taxes. If they don't pay them on income, one way, they will pay them out of income, when the heavily assessed manufacturer sells them food, or clothing, or machinery. But the only way, is to let them prove it through experience. There will be only one conclusion to that.

A gratifying result of the season's surveys by the Wisconsin Archaeological society is shown in the work done in the northwestern part of the state, where, as Secretary Brown puts it, "Our researches have extended through Polk, St. Croix, Barron, Burnett, Washburn, and Douglas counties," which had hitherto had very little scientific attention from archaeologists. The result has been the location of many new groups of mounds, camp sites, cemeteries, battle fields, sugar camps, spirit rocks, etc. The society's annual report this year will be a great record of new achievement.

Short News.
Two items of political importance come from New York this week. The Sun says the first day's registration was short, 25,000 as compared with 1908 and 63,000 with 1904, and Holland, the well known correspondent, says many young men will vote for Roosevelt. Young men decide all elections. The average voter is about 28.
There is a remarkable exhibition of old masters now being shown here, as the fall opening effort of the Milwaukee Art Society. It is loaned by Ehrlich's galleries New York, and is the most notable collection that ever came into this state.
If the state officials can remit $2,000,000 of taxes as not needed, why do we keep on raising taxes? Are the people incompetent to keep their own money?

ELLIS B. USHER.

IF TOMORROW IS YOUR BIRTH-

Someday trouble or disappointment awaits you, but it will be followed by prosperity and general good fortune. If you are under the direction of others, you will receive favors.
Those born today will be shrewd, energetic and interested principally in material things, in which they will be very fortunate. Later they will understand, but may fail to gain the advantages of a more versatile mind.

Quick Business Transaction.
While a flock of sheep was being driven along the Glasgow and Carlisle road, near the town of Lockerbie, Scotland, the other day, a motor car ran into it, killing three. The motorist at once drew up, inquired as to the cost of the sheep, paid for them, bade the shepherd "Good-day," and went on his way, the whole affair being the work of a few minutes.

Gifts of the Heart.
Gifts from the hand are silver and gold, but the heart gives that which neither silver nor gold can buy. To be full of goodness, full of cheerfulness, full of sympathy, full of helpful hope, causes one to carry with him blessings of which he is himself as unconscious as a lamp is of its own shining. Such a one moves on human life as stars move on dark seas to bewildered mariners; as the sun wheels, bringing all the seasons with him from the south.—Beecher.

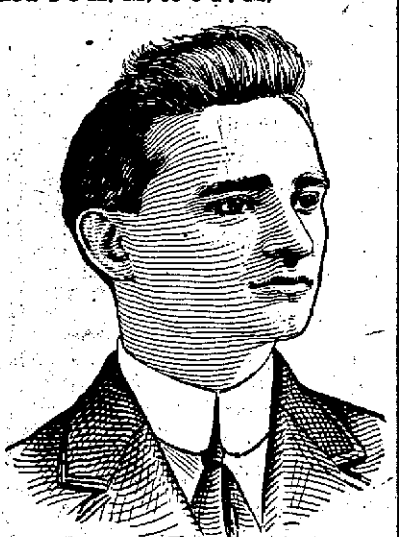

Highest Good in Life.
The highest good is found in the way of doing good, giving what we have, our best selves, to others. Let a man seek efficiency in his business, let him seek leadership in his profession, let him seek enriching some other lives. This is the myrrh that preserves to us all that we gain and perfumes all while selfishness is the moth that breeds decay and death.

Strength in Struggle.
He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper.—Edmund Burke.

Sample of Ingalls' Satire.
Many years ago, when Senator Ingalls was in the senate, oleomargarine was a bone of contention. The debate led Ingalls to utter one of those epigrammatic sentences which made him famous. "I have never, to my knowledge, tasted oleomargarine," said Ingalls, "but I have stood in the presence of genuine butter with awe for its strength and reverence for its sanctity."

A Log On The Track
of the fast express means serious trouble ahead if not removed, so does loss of appetite. It means lack of vitality, loss of strength and nerve weakness. If appetite fails, take Electric Bitters quickly to overcome the cause by toning up the stomach and curing the indigestion. Michael Heasheimer of Lincoln, Neb., had been sick over three years, but six bottles of Electric Bitters put him right on his feet again. They gave pure blood, strong nerves, and good digestion. Only 60 cents at People's Drug Co.

Imperial Kerosene and Gasoline

will go farther and give better results than any other Kerosene or Gasoline on the market today, we will bar none.

The Kerosene burns with a clear white light, and does not smoke the chimney or char the wick. We are fast approaching the season of the year when you will need the best light you can get as the long Winter evenings will shut in early and much of the Household work and reading must be done by artificial light.

If after you have given IMPERIAL KEROSENE OR GASOLINE a fair and impartial trial, you find it does not do just as we say it will, all you have to do is to return the unused portion of your oil and get your money back for your entire purchase.

Can you get a fairer proposition of anyone than this? Give us a chance to make good.
